'That's my best friend'

God's four-footed ambassador

Erika knows that when the candles are out, she can walk down the aisle and greet people

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The pastoral calm of a Golden Retriever's demeanor can provide access to many hearts regardless of age. If Erika knows this, she is shameless. She goes for the souls.

Erika works with the ministry of Father Vincent Eckholm as a companion for all occasions. She knows the service. She knows the people. She loves the work.

Erika is a companion dog for Father Vincent Eckholm, pastor of St. Ignatius of Antioch Episcopal Church. She is the daughter of Tess, and she has a daughter of her own, Alex.

Erika is a beloved member of the Eckholm family, a welcome part of the congregation, and a regular visitor to the homes of Church members when Eckholm makes calls at the homes of parishioners.

"A lot of my work is making house calls," he said. These may be for religious instruction, visits, or doing a church service for people unable to come to the Church itself. Erika has become a necessary part of those visits.

"I love it. I really love it," Eckholm says about making house calls. "That way, you learn about their families, their jobs, the important things in their life, their marriages." He sees it as an important part of his responsibilities to the members of the congregation.

The decision to bring Erika along on such calls was not dramatic.

"I really don't know how it all started," Eckholm said. It may have

Forum reflects on drug concern

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Parents, school officials, and government officials from Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, and Antioch met together at Antioch Community High School to learn about community drug use Monday, June 22.

Approximately four dozen people listened to a summary of drug use in the three-community area. They also heard some initial ideas for adults to consider in order to reduce the negative impacts of drug use in the lives of school children.

Information about student alcohol and other drug use was presented from a survey administered to students in District 34 grades 6 to 8, and in District 117 grades 9 to 12 in January and March, 1998. Students in grade 5 were administered an age appropriate survey that differed from the grade 6 to 12 format.

Antioch Community High School students and students in grades 6, 7, and 8 of District 34 answered questions on a survey developed by the Rocky Mountain Behavioral Science Institute. The nationally administered survey is called the American Drug and Alcohol Survey. The Ft. Collins, Colo. institute provides an analysis of the survey results

Antioch plans Independence Day festival

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

The 1998 celebration of Independence Day in Antioch finally breaks the 24-hour limit imposed by planet rotation.

This year, July Fourth gets a running start on Friday, July 3, with the William E. Brook Memorial Concert at 8 p.m. in the auditorium at Antioch Community High School.

The celebration ends the next night with a traditional fireworks display.

Independence Day itself gets off to a running start with the Run for Freedom at 8:30 a.m. at the Scout House on Main Street at Williams Park. Sponsored by the State Bank of The Lakes, the run and walk requires pre-registration which takes place from 6:30 to 8:25 a.m. The race field is one of the largest in recent years and may exceed 500 persons.

At 9:30 a.m., the Antioch Independence Day Committee sponsors a presentation by the Antioch Community Choir.

The parade starts at 10 a.m. at Antioch Community High School and moves north up Main Street to Williams Park.

Part of the parade includes a Pet

Parade, a Costume Parade, and a Bike Decorating Contest sponsored by First Chicago Bank of Antioch. The judging for the event occurs prior to the parade departure at the high school and prizes are awarded at Williams Park when it concludes.

Participants in the pet parade should carry water for their pets.

Late morning and afternoon celebrations occur at Williams Park. Starting at 11 a.m., First Chicago Bank of Antioch sponsors the Seventh Annual Children's Festival. These events unfold until about 2:30 p.m. Events include a fun fair, a watermelon eating contest, a Space Walk of Antioch attraction, and swimming for 25 cents, cheap.

The awards for the Bike Decorating Contest, Costume Contest, and Pet Parade will be distributed at the Children's Festival.

The Antioch Firecracker Sports Tournaments start in mid-morning. First National Bank-Employee Owned will sponsor this series of tournaments. Registration for these events must be completed by June 29. The Crazy Co-Ed Softball Tournament is at 9 a.m. Three others start at 11 a.m. They are: Basketball 3-point Shoot Out Contest, Co-Ed Sand Volleyball Tournament, and Horseshoe Tournament.

The open house sponsored by the Lakes Region Historical Society is at 11 a.m. There will be a quilting demonstration that later will move to the pavilion at Williams Park.

There will be food at Williams Park. Various non-profit organizations will be there to provide drinks and food.

High Noon Independence Day in Antioch is the starting time for pinochle and bridge at the Antioch Senior Center. Also at noon, at Williams Park, apple pies will be evaluated by Village Trustees and the Mayor. Two pies must be entered for each contest category. Slices of the submitted pies are sold by the Village throughout the afternoon.

Late afternoon includes a group of activities. From 3 to 5 p.m. there is Roy Clark's Country Line Dancing. From 5:15 to 7:15 p.m., the Antioch Rotary Club sponsors Footlights' Grease Band. From 7:30 to 8 p.m. the Antioch Community Choir will sing. The Lakes Area Community Band will play from 8:15 to 9:30 p.m.

The Village of Antioch will present a fireworks display at dusk. The fireworks may be seen at Williams Park and throughout the Village.

ERIKA: Pastor's best friend does God's work with style started eight or nine years ago.

"I'd bring her to my office at the church." People who came to meet with him there would respond warmly to Erika. When it came time to do house calls, he naturally took her along.

"It was a huge hit right from the beginning," Eckholm said. About five years ago on a very rainy day, he chose not to bring her on calls. The reaction was immediate and strong.

"Don't you ever do that again," he was told. People had found Erika's presence to be an important part of what they wanted from the visits.

"It makes me appear to be a more humane priest," Father Eckholm said.

Erika can also serve to break the ice. "In some cases, that is exactly what she is," he said.

Indeed, Erika can even attract people to the church.

A few years ago, a family that moved to Antioch was thinking about joining the Church. Their young child had misgivings about St. Ignatius of Antioch as a place of worship.

The family came to the church for a visit and Eckholm met with them. The child took a look at Erika and immediately expressed happiness about her presence and St. Ignatius.

"Is that your dog?" the child asked.

"That's my best friend," Father Eckholm replied.

Erika knows the routine for the house calls as well as church services. No, she does not attend all church services. Just part of the Wednesday evening service. The only service she attends in full is at Timber Lake Camp Ground on Route 45. That is an outdoor service and more informal.

The Wednesday evening service is a small group of the congregation that comes together to worship. Erika waits in the church office until the end of the service. At that time, she joins Eckholm as the candles are extinguished and the service comes to its close. Erika knows that when the candles are out, she can walk down the aisle and greet people.

Erika is equipped for her responsibilities. She is approachable and well tempered, contributes to the support of the church, and is able to teach others about unconditional love. She helps sustain a long tradition of animal service within the Church.

The dogs of priests in England's Anglican Church are widely known. Church's long have sponsored special annual services to bless animals. Literature has books and poems about religious meaning and animals.

Crowds do not make her anxious. She is comfortable with people, and she loves children. When taken for walks, Erika and daughter Alex have come upon groups of school children on a hike or a nature assignment. Both dogs enjoy the crowded attention of outstretched hands.

"They just stood there," Eckholm said. "Come and get me," they seem to say.

Erika also helps raise money for the support of the church. One of the fund-raisers for the church is the annual Bike-a-Thon. The May 30th event this year found Erika, and daughter Alex, dutifully walking for dollars. Erika was able to raise $100 from her pledges.

Her most helpful functions, however, are with Father Eckholm as he meets with members of the congregation in their homes.

Erika herself reflects the unconditional love of a dog. She also serves as an example of the unconditional love of God in the lives of believers.

In this manner, she teaches by example.

FORUM: Citizen learn sobering results of drug survey to schools which administer the survey to their students.

One of the major interpretations of the two district survey is that "there is a significant level of alcohol and other drug usage by the youth in our community."

The community forum was organized by school officials in Districts 34 and 117 to provide an initial approach by the community to work with drug and alcohol problems of young people. This was due in part to another conclusion of the survey which found that "most drug use occurs outside of the school setting."

Two remaining conclusions, also previously reported, were: "parents and peers play a significant role in the use or non-use of alcohol and other drugs" and "education/intervention efforts in the schools alone are not sufficient to reduce drug use."

"We have a tremendous amount of work to do among the parents of this community," said Tim Noonan, Student Assistance Program coordinator at the high school, near the end of the evening.

Also presenting survey results was Christine Newton, resource person for students and teachers in District 34 for drug prevention, education, and other student assistance issues.

"So, what can we do?" Newton asked. "Very generally, through research that we have looked at, the research indicates that the best drug prevention results are achieved when parents, school, media, and community organizations work together to produce change. So that's what our goal is."

Antioch makes time for sun fun

KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

"There's nothing to do, daddy."

Oh, yes, there is.

Children can: read a book; kick a can, man; ride a bike; go to Williams Park; attend a sports camp; go to Camp Crayon; mow the lawn; wash the dishes; read a book; walk the dog; go see a movie at the Antioch Theater; relax and do nothing at all; turn off the television set; read a book; play baseball in the Antioch Youth Baseball League; attend a cheerleader camp; wash and wax the family automobile; read a book; check out teen night at Williams Park pool; sneak over to Thelen Sand and Gravel and watch the leaves compost; and, of course, go to Books Etc. and buy a book to read.

It can be a busy summer.

The Village of Antioch Parks and Recreation Department can be a first starting point for summer fun for teenagers.

Another good place to start is with the Antioch Public Library. Interested readers can consult with the library staff to find good books to read during the summer.

This is the first year that five Friday Night Teen Nights at Williams Park will be sponsored by the Village.

"We're going to have swimming and sports tournaments," said Parks and Recreation Director Laurie Stahl.

Teen evenings are open to people 13 to 17 years old. The cost to participate is $5 per person.

"They can show up and pay that night," said Stahl. Teenagers can also register at the parks office at village hall ahead of time.

Stahl would like to include some dancing and listening opportunities for teen nights. "Teen bands that want to play under the pavilion can contact me at the parks office," she said.

All teen nights will feature swimming. However, the sporting event will be different for each subsequent night. On July 3, there will be a co-ed basketball shoot-out. On July 17, there will be co-ed roller hockey.

July 31, there will be co-ed soccer and Aug. 14 there will be co-ed Whiffle Ball.

A wide variety of summer recreation programs sponsored by the parks and recreation department are described in the department's bright-yellow program guide.

The hours and costs for the pool and swimming lessons are fully described for the summer. There are other programs too, such as computer tots, computer explorers, a fishing clinic (June 27), dog obedience classes, golf, junior golf league, gymnastics, line dancing, playtime in the park, and beginning karate. Parents should consult the program guide because dates, costs, and registration requirements vary from program to program.

Sports Camps of America offers a variety of camps through the village parks department. These include baseball, T-ball, basketball, and volleyball camp.

The White Sox Training Camp costs $160 and is intended for the serious, young ballplayer needing basic or advanced skills training. Interested people should register at the parks department office at village hall.

There are tennis programs at Centennial Park. Again, interested people should call the parks department or consult the program guide they received in the mail.

There are many drawing camps, plus a memory album workshop.

Antioch Parks and Recreation Department offers a drawing class, cartoon drawing camp, junior castle-drawing camp, and summer art camp.

A special series of workshops are sponsored by the parks department with Amy Jo Price, a Creative Memories consultant from Antioch.

"It's how to make scrapbooks with memorabilia and photographs," said Stahl. Price helps people develop ideas for layouts and guides them through the creative and practical steps to create an interesting album.

"It would be a nice mother and daughter class to work on an album," she said. The class is three hours.

"We're planning on doing it all through the year," she said. "It's only $7 if you're in the village, $10 if you're in the township, and $13 if outside the township," Stahl said.

Chamber of Commerce commercials an early-hit

Chamber of Commerce and Industry members were shown their new television commercials at their Thursday, June 18 meeting. The commercials will be broadcast until mid-September. They look wonderful. The voice in the commercials is by Steve Porch, of Choosey Child.

People will have to watch quickly, but Joanne Linker's first six seconds of fame, in one of the commercials that includes scenes of her store, J.J. Blinks, is an absolute hoot. I've got to do a story on that woman. She is something else.

The Bulletin has named Bob Lindblad, of Antioch, its Overall Achiever for 1998. They presented the announcement in their June 15 issue with a two-page biography of the long-term school board member, automobile salesman, accountant, and member of the Lakeland Players. These days Lindblad is a Director of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry, a member of the Lake-McHenry Historical Alliance, and is President of the Lakes Regional Historical Society.

OUR

Ken Patchen

Lindblad was selected from among 36 nominees in Lake and Kenosha Counties. The selections were made by three judges, one of whom was Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry President Barbara Porch, of Antioch.

This was the fourth annual selection of Bulletin Community and Business Achievers.

Richard Fredrickson lost a lamb. Thieves took the lawn ornament Sunday night, June 14 from his Lake Catherine front yard where it was resting beside its equally stuffed mother.

"They were all cloth," he said. "They're pretty cool." They were also very realistic looking.

These sheep are fabric lawn sculptures made by a friend in Kenosha. The lifelike images were specially treated to resist rain.

The ewe and lamb were given to him by Donna. "It was just a nice gift," he said.

There is a sign that states, in part, "Kidnapped baby lamb/ mother heartbroken."

There is a beautiful 1946 red Chevrolet pick-up truck in the front of Raymond Chevrolet and Oldsmobile on Route 173 here in Antioch. Jim Novack, Sales Manager, said, "We took it in trade." The vehicle has about 16,000 original miles on it. Today it is called a stake-bed, but in 1946 it was a pick-up truck.

"We're going to keep it and use it in parades around town," Novack said. Raymond Chevrolet and Oldsmobile did run the truck over to their brand new Collision-Center at 1027 Anita.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Ken Patchen at 223-8161, ext. 131 or e-mail, edit@lnd.com."

Artisans paint, dye, sculpt and heat up MainStreet

'It is evident: tie-dye will never die'

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

One hundred degrees Fahrenheit (at least it felt like it).

One hundred artists and crafters. Create a hot fair and you may attract hot weather, which is what the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry did with its annual Summer Arts and Crafts Faire.

A strong turn out of families tended to melt under the clear blue skies and hot sun as people strolled among booths filled with an eclectic mix of everything.

Everything, indeed. Items jewelry, yard art, clothes, wood craft, yard iron, bird and bat houses, pelicans on piers, sports memorabilia, ceramics, dolls, sandstone coasters, paperweights, quilts, wood signs, and dried flowers.

There were T-shirts, denim shirts, calligraphy on cards, linens, bronze footprints and hands, bird feeders, rocking horses, Chef and Cartman jewelry, whirl-a-gigs, hats, photographs, candles, lawn ornaments, pottery, oils, fresh vegetables, and straw brooms.

There were cow stuff, leather pouches and bands, painting on driftwood, wind chimes with a vengeance, and tie-dye.

It is evident: tie-dye will never die.

There was fine art photography by Mike Brown and Ted Foss, drawings from Antioch Art Gallery, Betty Sills Gallery, Bruce Taylor, and Sharon Manka.

The fair is a fully promoted event that has economic significance to Antioch and is part of life in Antioch.

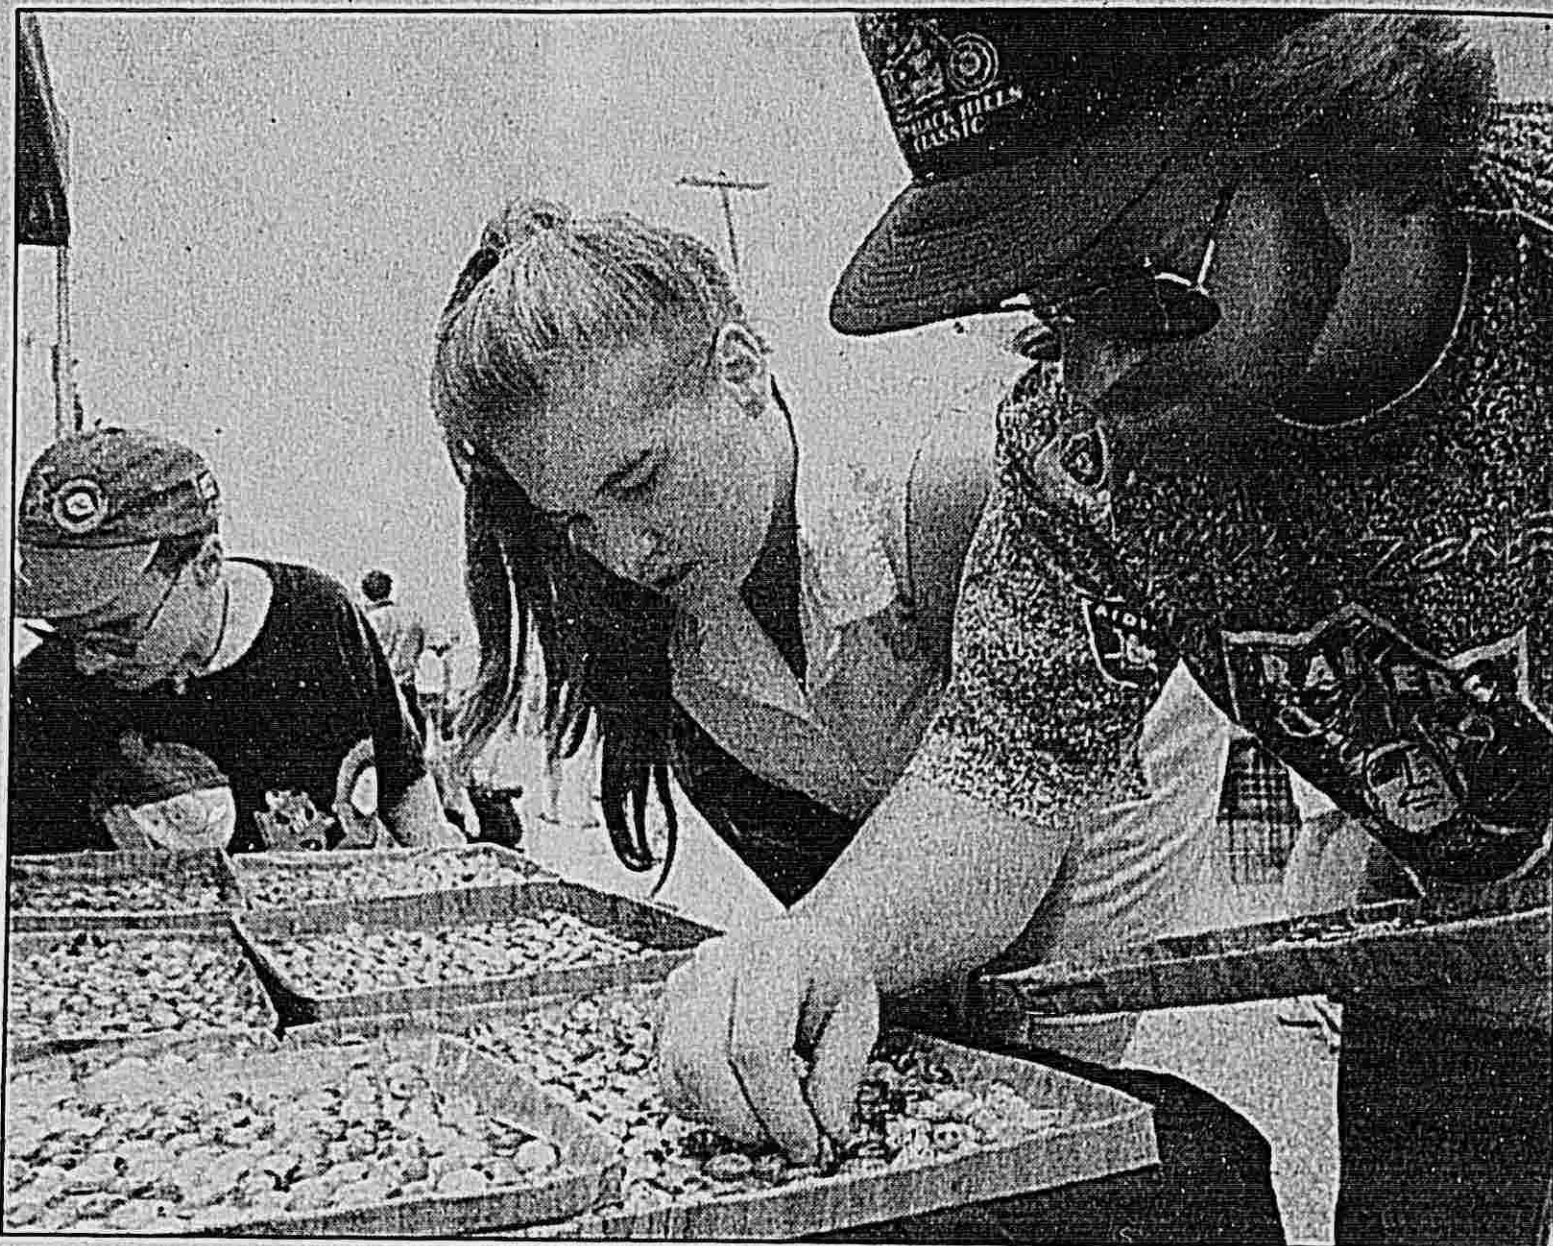

"It's absolutely essential," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug on opening day of the fair. "It contributes a sense of village wholeness."

She sees it as another reason to come downtown. People look forward to it.

"Having the artists there with their paintings is a definite draw which has boosted attendance," she said. "It's growing in its scope."

One way it has grown is to attract new artisans to the market.

Local photographers Ted Foss and Mike Brown obtained space for the first time to exhibit and sell their photographs of nature and landscapes.

Barry Wenbeog, of Racine, Wis., Becky Boback of Trevor, Wis., and Brian Gibney of Trevor, Wis., check over some stones at the downtown craft faire. —Photo by Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom.

"I do mostly black and white," said Foss. He also exhibits his color work of sunflowers, southwestern native American cliff dwellings, and cave scenes.

Mike Brown offers color photography ranging from the closeups of hummingbirds sweeping in for feeding to landscapes taken from the air.

"I have a 12-foot kite from which I hang my camera," said Brown to explain elevations he used in some photographs. A radio trigger allows him to take the picture when he has the camera in position.

Both Foss and Brown expect to appear at additional shows, such as Holy Hill in Wisconsin, later in the summer.

Then there are seasoned veterans such as Rich and Pam Ballenger. They sell sandstone coasters.

"We do this eight months of the year," said Rich Ballenger. His wife paints designs on sandstone coasters that absorb the water that runs down the side of a cold glass on a hot day.

"We did 23 shows last year," he said. The Ballengers tour in a camper all year long and do shows throughout the west and mid-west.

"What's nice about this show is that it is a craft fair," he said. "Multiple crafts is the best he said." Fairs that include carnivals and other exhibits distract the crowds according to Ballenger.

This is the Ballenger's third successful year in the Antioch fair.

Dan Sills has organized the fair for the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry the past few years. He has helped to lead a major expansion of the fair.

Strong crowds turned out for the first four hours of the Saturday fair but eventually dropped when temperatures approached the 96 and 104 degree range.

"The heat has held the crowds down," he said.

He was optimistic about the strength of the fair for exhibitors but also conscious of the impact weather has on family attendance.

There were cold drinks at two locations, as well as snack food items. St. Ignatius of Antioch Episcopal Church had a sales tent for a few food items, but also was selling bottled water.

"Anything cold is doing well," Sills said near Sunday noon.

POLICE BEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH Slapping

Antioch Police Officers investigated two separate incidents in which people slapped one another.

Antioch Police Officers received a complaint regarding a possible fight in a parking lot at Route 173 and 83 on June 17 at 11:48 p.m. Two people were discussing CB radio etiquette regarding the use of swear words. Both people were sent on their way by investigating officers.

Later, one of the people arrived at the police station and requested assistance for a hurt shoulder. Antioch Rescue Squad took the person to St. Therese Medical Center where it was determined that he had a dislocated shoulder. Police then learned that during the discussion in the parking lot, one person had slapped the other in the face and then pushed him into a car. The fall may have caused the dislocated shoulder. Police charged the person who did the slapping with battery. He was released on recognizance pending a July 22 court date in Grayslake at 10:30 a.m.

The next slapping incident occurred two days later.

Antioch Police Officers issued a citation to an Antioch resident for improper passing on June 19 at 5:28 p.m. A gray 1990 Toyota pickup truck passed a passenger vehicle on North Avenue. A complaint about the passing pickup truck was made to police officers as well as a commitment to pursue charges and cooperate in prosecution.

Antioch police investigated the incident and found the pickup truck driver. That driver said the passenger car was driving extremely slow. The driver of the pickup truck passed the slow moving vehicle. As a result, he said, the passenger car driver followed him. When the car driver confronted the truck driver, the passenger car driver yelled at him, and slapped him once with her hand.

The pickup truck driver declined to pursue charges against the passenger vehicle driver for the slap. Police issued him a citation for improper passing. The court date is July 8 in Grayslake.

LINDENHURST

Minor consumes alcohol

Lindenhurst Police Officers stopped Gary R. McMillan, 20, of Lindenhurst, on June 20 at 2:01 p.m. traveling eastbound on Grass Lake Road at Beck Road in a black 1991 Dodge. He was charged with improper lane use, unsafe equipment (tires had no tread), no insurance, and consumption of alcohol as a minor. He took a breathalyzer test (0.05). Also found in the vehicle was a nickel-sized hallucinogenic mushroom button, psilocybin. McMillan told the police officer that he had no knowledge of it and how it got to be there. He was released on $2,000 bond without his drivers license pending a court date in Grayslake.

Cannabis possession

Lindenhurst Police Officers stopped Ryan A. Keel, 18, of Antioch, on June 19 at 4:31 a.m. traveling northbound on Route 45 near Miller Road in a Buick. He was charged with one headlight, improper lane use, possession of cannabis, and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was released on bond of $75 pending a court date of Aug. 5 in Grayslake.

Lake Villa officers witnessed him drive on the shoulder of the road for approximately 60 feet before stopping.

On June 18 a driver reported damage allegedly done to his white Buick Riviera after he drove it through the Shell Quik Mart Car Wash in Lake Villa.

He reported he felt his car rear being lifted and then dropped as he drove through the wash.

The Stephens were charged with possession of cannabis, driving with no valid registration and no insurance.

They were released on bond with a court date of July 8 in Grayslake.

Antioch welcomes five new businesses to downtown

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

New businesses continue to arrive and open in Antioch. And, in two cases, businesses are expanding with the addition of improved customer services.

Three new stores in Antioch include Forget Me Not at 881 Main Street, Deni's Candy Bouquet at 418 Lake Street, and Country Pontiac-Buick at 845 Main Street.

Two businesses which have expanded with new customer services include Antioch True Value Hardware's Just Ask Rental at 488 Orchard Street and the new Raymond Chevrolet-Oldsmobile Collision Center at 1027 Anita Street.

Forget Me Not is a flower shop owned by Heather Thompson and Colette Lossredo. It is near the PM&L Theater and offers both fresh and silk flower arrangements.

"We do flowers for weddings, parties, and gifts," said Heather Thompson at their Saturday, June 20 grand opening. "We do delivery."

They have been in the flower business for six years in Chicago and LaGrange. This is their first venture together.

Deni's Candy Bouquet offers, what they call, "a delicious alternative to flowers." The store offers a variety of candies presented in imaginative bouquet formats. The "over the hill" bouquet, for example, is a dramatic black and white collection of candies, ribbon, and fake cobwebs popping out of the top of a tombstone headrest.

Fountain parfait dishes are available that resemble sundaes using chocolate kisses or small golf balls instead of ice cream.

Deni Phelps and daughter Brooke Phelps will work with customers to create special displays. Ready to go out the door at the grand opening was a bouquet for Blues Singer Robert Cray, who would appear the next night at Ravinia.

"Even before I advertised, people came in from word of mouth," said Deni Phelps. She was especially grateful for the strong support she received from the owners of the Lakeside Restaurant at 410 Lake Street.

"I've noticed small business owners helping others," Phelps said. "That's what I like about this town. It's really nice."

Country Pontiac-Buick has opened at 845 Main Street, the northeast corner of Orchard Street and Main Street. General Manager Denny Lento is selling both new and used vehicles.

The showroom is filled with new automobiles, and the lot holds a large inventory of new and used vehicles.

Antioch True Value Hardware, Inc. is a community fixture at 488 Orchard Street. Now the store offers Just Ask Rental. Owner Stan Livermore has expanded his business with a new department and service, tool and equipment rental.

"We think of this as a store within a store," he told Village Trustees and Chamber of Commerce and Industry officials who were present to welcome the new business expansion.

Livermore said that people can use their Visa credit card and drivers license to rent his equipment. This eliminates the need to bring money for a separate security deposit.

"We do deliver," he said. Not every automobile can hold a log splitter, party tent, popcorn wagon, roto-tiller, cement mixer, engine hoist, carpet steamer, ceramic-tile cutter, or huge barbecue grill. Also available are wedding supplies such as a tent, Champaign fountain, huge platters, guest chairs, and folding tables.

Livermore said that he finds he is renting merchandise to people who were not previously aware they could rent, for their own use, professional equipment to do yard chores or large party goods.

There is a damage waiver provision at Just Ask Rental which protects people if the merchandise breaks from normal wear-and-tear.

Instructions for rental equipment use and safety procedures are explained by the staff. For equipment such as a chainsaw, for example, Just Ask Rental provides safety instructions, a face protector, hearing-protectors, and other safety equipment at no additional cost.

Raymond Chevrolet-Oldsmobile Collision Center is just a few hundred feet north of their main automobile sales and repair facility on Route 173. The Collision Center offers state of the art repair services for customers. It also offers state of the art environmental protection from the paints and chemicals used to recreate vehicle appearance.

"This is a top of the line booth," said General Manager John Kowalewski. The DeVilbiss System 2000 is a down-draft paint booth offering virtually dust-free painting. However, he said, "We always buff." It is a quality factor.

"We had a need to expand," said Mark Scarpelli at the grand opening. "We do a lot of work for other customers."

"We're able to do better quality work and more of it," he said. "The quality of the work is exceptional."

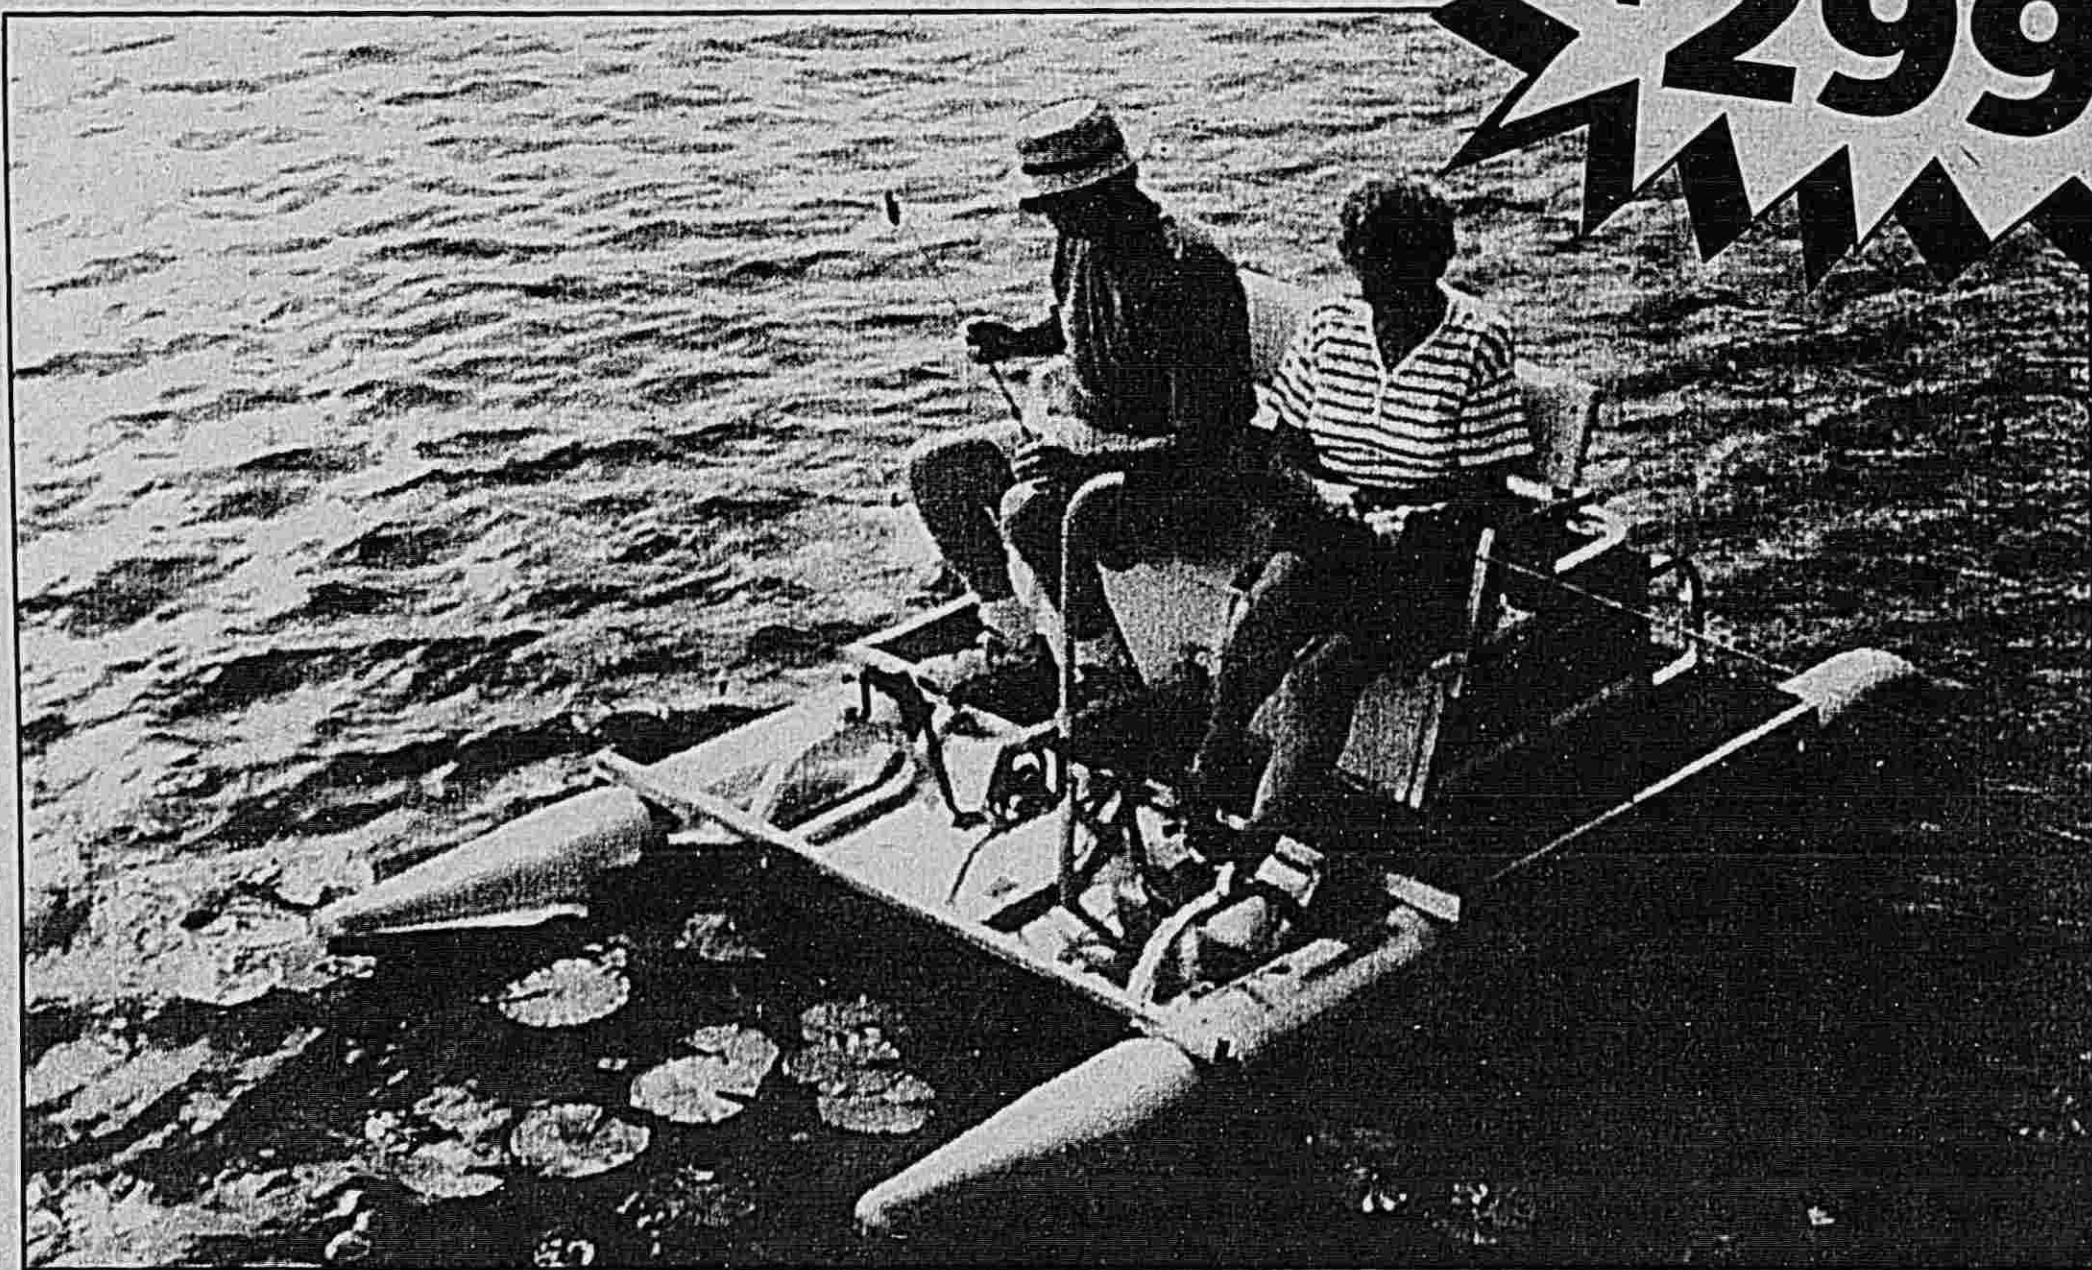

The grand opening ceremonies are sponsored by the Village of Antioch and the Chamber of Commerce and Industry as a way to welcome new merchants to town. Village trustees who personally host the ceremony include Dorothy Larson, Wayne Foresta, and Mabel Lou Weber. Mayor Marilyn Shineflug also participated. Chamber of Commerce officials included Randy Nolan and Melonnie Hartl.

Claude LeMere and Billie Horton of the village development department staff coordinate the business welcome.

U-10 Typhoon boys fall to Wheaton Wings Black 1-0

The Lindenhurst Typhoon (Boys U-10, NISL, Bronze Division) had a tough go of it in Wheaton over Father's Day weekend as they lost to the Wheaton Wings Black by the score of 1-0. It was a difficult loss for the team as they generally outplayed the Wheaton team. The Wings scored in the second quarter and showed significant improvement since the last time the two teams met.

The Typhoon midfielders (Alex McKenzie and Ian Hunter) had good control of the middle of the field and pushed the attack most of the time. The Typhoon defense, led by goalies

Brett Carlson and Kyle Kozuch kept the play on the Wings half of the field, but the offense was unable to put a score on the board as shots by Alex McKenzie, Jason Moxley and Alan Kroeger flew over the top of the seven foot goals. A standout on defense for the Typhoon was Luke Ksioszk who seemed unaffected by the 94 degree heat as many wilted. The Typhoon record is now 4-3-2 and they are in second place in the division. They have one regular season game left and then it's on the Rockford Watermelon Tournament in July.

Turbos end season with two ties

The Lindenhurst Turbos boys U-15 soccer team traveled to Rockford and played the Rock Run Express to a 2-2 tie. Jason Myers scored both goals for Lindenhurst, while Nate Hook took over the goal-keeping duties. Assisting on the goals were Jason Adams and Kieran Moran. The Express got the game which tied the game on a controversial penalty kick call.

Later in the week, the Turbos also played the Dekalb Spectre to a 3-3 tie in a game shortened by lightning. The Turbos gave up two easy first half goals to the Spectre, but fought back with a header goal from Jeff Prorock who took a nice pass from Matt Peterson. Peterson also scored with an assist from Zach Pratt. Pratt closed out the scoring deflecting off a Spectre defender. Sean O'Neill added some shooting for the Turbos and Eric Liebert was strong at midfield.

Antioch Miss, Little Miss pageant June 27

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Village officials will host the annual Pageant Queen contest Saturday, June 27 at Antioch Community High School to select two representatives for the community for 1998 and 1999.

The field of candidates includes 15 Little Miss Antioch candidates and 8 Miss Antioch candidates.

The evening's program begins at 6:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium with Ted Axton, President of the First National Bank—Employee Owned, serving as Master of Ceremonies. He will be assisted by Ann Kakacek who will provide descriptive commentary about each candidate.

The pageant theme this year is "When you wish upon a star."

"We're not going to have an intermission," said Laurie Stahl, Pageant Director for the Village. "We're going to have a social in the commons immediately following the pageant."

The post-pageant social will allow people to meet the candidates and for photographs to be taken.

There will be a charge to attend the pageant this year. "It will be $2 for adults and $1 for children and seniors," she said. The village also has begun to charge a $10 application fee to candidates.

The pageant will be broadcast on cable Channel 3, according to Stahl.

Stahl said that because the high school is undergoing a modernization project, it will be necessary to park behind the high school and follow signs to the auditorium.

Pancakes promote safety

First Fire Protection District Antioch Fire Department will sponsor their 4th Annual pancake breakfast Sunday, June 28 from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the fire station at Orchard Street and Holbek Drive.

The entire community is invited.

Last year, almost half of Antioch showed up. The crowd was estimated to have been 3,000 people.

"It's our only fund raiser during the year," Capt. Samuel Frankson said. "We'd like to see people turnout."

This is a big breakfast and it includes its own raffle.

Lt. John Lucas is chair of the group that sometimes includes up to 100 people on the morning of the breakfast.

"The Antioch Junior Woman's Club comes to help that morning," said Frankson. There are many volunteers to keep the food fresh and to provide interesting tours of the fire station.

Tickets are for sale at the fire station the morning of the breakfast. They cost $2 for children 6 to 12 years old. Senior citizens can have a breakfast for $3. All other adults are $4.

Tickets for the raffle will be available for sale at the breakfast. Tickets may also be bought at the station between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. They are $1 apiece or 6 tickets for $5.

The raffle prizes are $500 for first place, $300 for second, $200 for third, and $100 each for fourth and fifth places.

Frankson said that the funds are used to help support the department and the association.

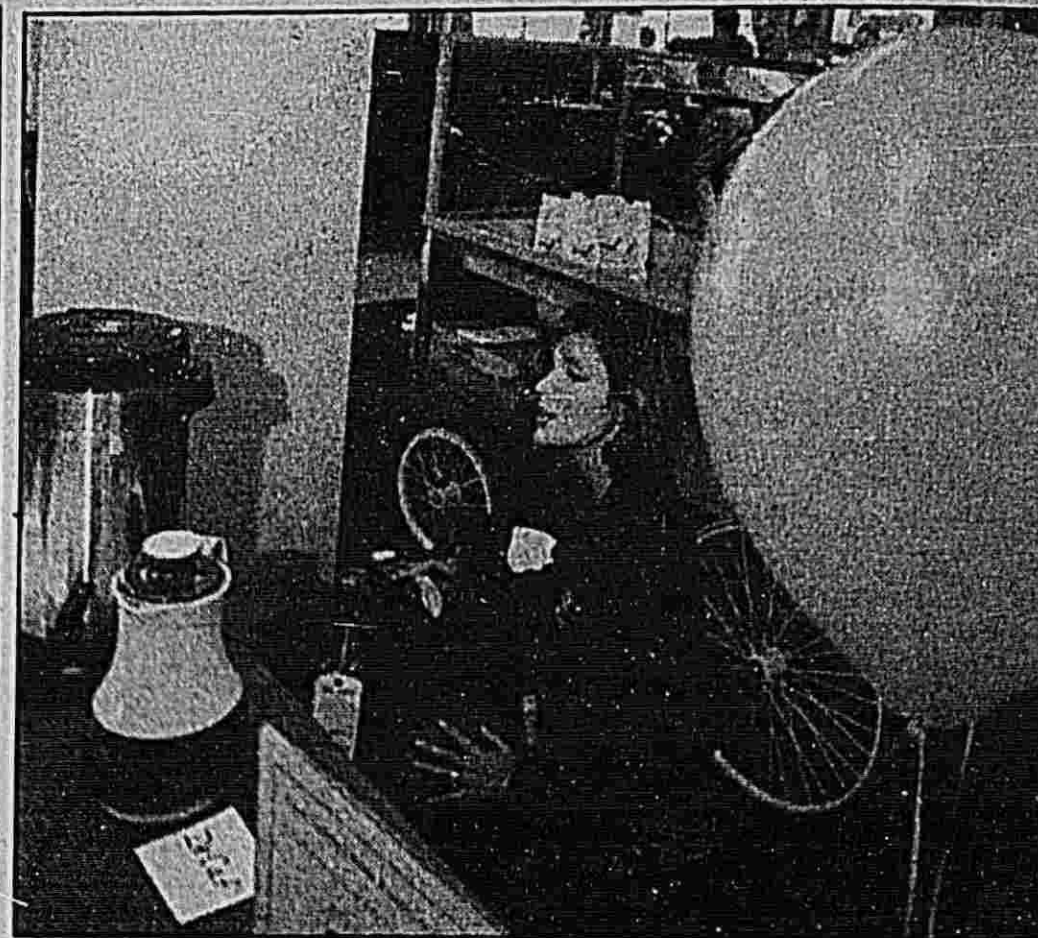

Families that attend the breakfast will find displays of interest to themselves and children. The equipment is on display, there are tours of the station, and there are displays about each division of service.

Frankson said that there also would be equipment on display that the department hopes to purchase in the future.

News from retirement

There are still a few openings in the Tuesday/Thursday sessions of the Village of Antioch's Camp Crayon Program.

You may be wondering: "What the heck is Camp Crayon anyway?" Well, it is a social program for preschool age children. To participate in the 1998-99 Camp Crayon year, your little person, as they are fondly referred to, must be at least 3 years old on or before Sept. 1, 1998 and, most importantly, they must be potty trained. The unofficial motto of those Camp Crayon teachers is "We don't do diapers."

You may register at the Parks and recreations office, located in the Village Hall at 874 Main Street in beautiful downtown Antioch, or contact the Parks Director, Laurie Stahl, at 395-2160.

At the time of registration there is a $25 non-refundable deposit required. Each session consists of 6 weeks for a total of 12 days, i.e., two days per week.

The next six week session begins Sept. 15. The cost of each six week session is as follows: Village residents $60, Township residents $70, outside village or township is $80.

So, if you are looking for something to fill a couple of hours for your little person, Miss Debbie has some great projects lined up for the coming year.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

On a more personal note

Well, the old retired one, i.e., Liz Schmehl or Camp Crayon's Miss Liz, did get a few takers on her offer to teach people how to line dance. She still has room for more on Thursday afternoons from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. She is offering this service free of charge simply as a personal incentive to herself in order to force her to be more diligent in dancing those pounds away.

She has tons of music to go along with the billion or so dances she knows and is willing to teach them to anyone over 16 years. So, if you are free on Thursday afternoons and would like to have some fun, learn something new and get a lot of exercise to boot, contact Liz at 395-5380.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Talking Health

by Dr. Scott Reiser, D.C.

CHIROPRACTIC, NUTRITION, AND PREGNANCY

There is a fairly high number of premature and low-birth-weight babies born to economically disadvantaged women. In response to this problem, the government has established nutritional counseling programs for low income mothers. As the general public has become increasingly aware of the complex effects that food choices have on total health and well being, the nutritional state of the rest of the pregnant population has begun to be addressed.

Proper nourishment is very important for a developing fetus, and no easy assumptions can be made about nutrition during pregnancy. It is imperative that pregnant women obtain informed nutritional counseling.

Chiropractors study nutrition extensively and consider proper diet essential to health. If you are pregnant, you should consult a chiropractor for invaluable dietary help.

If maintaining your health and reducing stress is important to you, call Round Lake Beach Chiropractic at 847-740-2800 to make an initial, no obligation consultation with Dr. Scott G. Reiser. PBA Pro-Am a striking success

Last Friday I entered a world I had only heard about and seen on television and in movies. I competed in the PBA Pro-Am bowling tournament at Hawthorn Lanes. If you've seen the movie "Kingpin" then you have some idea of what I was getting into.

Obviously, things were not quite as exaggerated as in the movie, but it was a world I was not familiar with. Many of my fellow bowlers were sporting custom shirts, shoes and various wrist supports, and some wheeled in three, four and five bowling balls on dollies—ready for competition. And yes, I did see some silver and gold bowling shoes, but for the most part the attire was relatively tame.

I was decked out in my size 13 rental shoes, my 13-pound rental ball, and was ready to embarrass myself in lane 29.

The first pro who bowled with my group, lanes 29 and 30, was Phil Morro, and he was very nice and supportive. But that still didn't help me begin my day on a positive note.

I opened with—you guessed it—a gutter ball. My scoresheet displayed that goose egg on the overhead monitor so that all could witness my inferiority. I followed that up with a sickly five, and after the first frame I was dead last.

Eventually I turned things around and scored a 134, just three pins out of second-to-last place. (My scores were a little inflated, due to the 9-pin, no tap rule). My second game opened the same way, with a first frame of 0-7. Again I rebounded, slightly, and finished with a 142 while co-owner of Hawthorn Lanes, and local pro, Bill Spigner looked on and offered tips.

Finally, I was warming up and had my third game ahead. I opened with: strike, strike, spare, strike, strike, strike, strike. I did cool off a bit, but finished with a strong 219—within striking distance of our third pro, Todd Weismann.

The event was a lot of fun, as the pros and amateurs intermingled while bowling, at the snack table and all throughout the bowling alley. The professionals gave the amateurs tips, and some of the amateurs gave the pros a run for their money.

The weekend did include a professional tournament, as Hawthorn Lanes hosted the 1998 PBA Hawthorn Lanes Regional Championship. The event featured a number of local bowlers, and most competing in the tournament were from the midwest.

First prize went to Paul Nicholas, of Romeoville, as he walked away with $3,000. Bill Spigner, of Vernon Hills, placed 7th; Jeremy Sonnenfeld, "Mr. 900", took 19th place; and Brian Chilcutt, of Long Grove, finished in 21st place.

Area bowlers who did not make the cut included Adam Cardwell; Mark Raymond, Jr.; Mike Stell; Steve LeBoyer; Jerry Cullum; Jim Kedroski; and Mitch Sacks, all of Vernon Hills.

Hughes to play on gridiron, diamond in college

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The North-South All-Star football game showcases the best in Chicagoland football talent, so it is not unusual for an exciting mid-June clash.

Two Antioch grads and one from Round Lake were on the North side, which battled the South before losing 29-28 in double overtime.

"Like I said to Dave Gooch, that makes us 0-3 in overtime games in high school. It was fun, intense. The South team had a lot of Division I guys," Reggie Hughes said.

Hughes will be a linebacker next year at Augustana College. He went back to offense for the all-star game at Downers Grove South. As a tight end, he threw a block on the first North touchdown and snared a pass later in the game.

Gooch, a fellow Sequoia, and Round Lake's Troy Robison, a defensive lineman, also were on the roster.

"This was my fourth time coaching an all-star game and we never had it go to double OT. A lot of players get invited walk-ons from the game and some earn scholarships," Reggie Hughes Sr., an assistant coach for defense, said.

The defensive backs coach said Gooch did a nice job defensively, against Barrington's John Sharp, nephew of former NFL player Shannon Sharp.

The teams had two weeks to practice. A two-point conversion won the game for the South All-Stars.

Hughes, 6-3, 205 pounds, plans to play football and baseball at Augustana.

"I just ran two miles today and did some agility work. I hope I can play linebacker, but I will play wherever they need me," said Hughes.

Augustana was one of three teams to share the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin. In baseball, Hughes brings his all-NSC accolades and a powerful swing with 14 homers for the NSC runners-up.

Hughes considered bigger schools, some in the Big Ten, but opted for the smaller Rock Island, Ill. university. He is playing this summer for the Gurnee American Legion team. On Wednesday night, he caught his fellow Sequoia, Karl Richter's one-hitter against Libertyville.

"He pitched a great game with a lot of ground balls," said Hughes.

As for the elder Hughes, this fall may be a rarity of not coaching football. The former long-time Warren High head coach was an assistant at Antioch last year. This fall, he plans frequent trips to Rock Island.

Sequoits trio named All-North Suburban

Scopel, Langley and Jaburek receive post-season honors

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Softball recap: One player successfully recovered from a shoulder injury.

Another was known for her defense. A third switched sides of the plate in hitting, improving her offense.

All three Antioch High School softball players—Kristin Scopel, Nicole Langley and Shannah Jaburek, were named All-North Suburban Conference. All were seniors for the 16-16 Sequoits.

Scopel was 14-9 for Antioch on the mound and hit .234 with a .393 on-base percentage.

"It took a while for her because she had half a year off due to shoulder injury and she recovered nicely," said Antioch coach Steve Wapon.

Langley had only seven errors in 200 chances at first base. She hit .250 with an on-base average of .409.

"She was known more for her defense. There were many throws she had to jump for or move to get," said Wapon.

Jaburek's offense may be the most interesting of the trio. She switched to the left side and became a slap hitter and bunter. She hit .355 and was on-base almost half of her at-bats from the leadoff position.

"She became a left-handed hitter her junior year and really worked hard on it last summer," said Wapon.

Jaburek and Scopel were named co-MVP and Langley voted team captain by teammates.

The Sequoits were eliminated by Stevenson, which was on its way to the state quarterfinals.

Antioch designated hitter Dana Spandet, a senior next fall, was named most improved. She could play catcher, first base or outfield next year.

Young pitchers, sophomore Kaelleen O'Connell and freshman Abby Thomas, pitched in Scopel's absence early on.

Third baseman Melissa Bock, a two-year letter winner, is also back, at third base.

Junior Megs Kotlarz returns at catcher after hitting .357 with an on-base average of .569.

Carrie Hagglund leads the returning outfielders with Becky Birren back as well.

Melissa Dietz is an infielder who will return as will freshman Jamie Knuth and Kristen Curran.

Those returning have a busy summer ahead of them, playing for the Lindenhurst Travelers coached by Ross Curran or the Traveling Sequoits.

Richter back in top form: throws one-hitter in win

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

In some jobs, taking too much vacation can be a bad thing.

For example, being a 17-year old standout pitcher, Karl Richter found that out the hard way in a one-run loss for Gurnee American Legion team.

Richter, an 11-game winner for Antioch this spring, regained his form in a one-hit, 6-2 win over Libertyville for Gurnee.

The only hit allowed was a double by Matt Hansen in the third inning.

Richter had an answer for each Libertyville attempted rally in the Dist. 10 game. Libertyville scored two runs and had the bases loaded, but Kansas University bound Lukas McKnight flied out.

"I try to keep it low and inside on him and throwing sliders," said Richter.

"He pitched a good game with a lot of ground ball outs," said catcher Reggie Hughes.

Richter will attend Illinois Benedictine Academy in Lisle this fall.

"He did a great job. He was pretty comfortable and the guys played great defense. The key was everyone contributed. We had two starters from Warren on the bench today. There is only 10 guys I can put in the lineup," said Gurnee coach Rick Hill.

Chris Groth, Antioch native who is headed to Illinois State University, can play both shortstop or third base on the infield's left side. He was 3-4 with a first inning double.

Gurnee took a 3-0 lead as one walk and two hits came home. An error also helped the home team.

Justin Henry's two-run single and a RBI double by Mike Gildea sparked a three-run fifth inning for Post 771.

The win evened the Gurnee team's mark at 2-2.

Lightning beat Scorpions, extend win streak to three

The Lake Villa Lightning, Lake Villa Township Baseball's 13 year old Traveling Team, won 3 games and extended their winning streak to 5 games. In a very exciting and close game, the Lightning (20-10) had to play 13 innings before successfully executing a suicide squeeze on a 2-2 pitch to beat arch rival Lake Zurich Scorpions, 5-4, for their third straight league victory.

Matt Lukemeyer led off the bottom of the 13th inning with a double to left-center and was moved to third on a 2 strike ground ball to the right side by Brett Bairstow. Then, with the infield and outfield drawn in, Scott Coles laid down the bunt with Lukemeyer in motion and the play at the plate was too late. A 2-run home in the top of the 5th by Mike Niles had given Lake Zurich the 4-3 lead which stood until the 7th.

After the game was tied, a pitchers duel ensued from the 8th through the 13th as Ryan Myers threw 6 innings of shutout ball, allowing only 1 hit and striking out 10 while Niles allowed the single runs in the 7th and 13th on 4 hits. Myers picked up the victory while starter Chad Stroup pitched the first 7 innings allowing 6 hits and striking out 11. Lake Villa struck out 21 Scorpion batters overall.

Lake Villa also took a double-header from Arlington Heights 12-9 and 8-4. Both games featured plenty of offense with the teams combining for 20 and 21 hits respectively. The game one winner was Sean Walker who went all 7 innings while striking out 6. He had plenty of support from his teammates as the Lightning, after losing the lead in 3 consecutive innings, pushed across 4 runs in the 6th and held on for the victory.

In game two, C.J. Walleck got the start while Chad Stroup (3 innings, no runs, 5 K's) and Matt Lukemeyer finished up in relief. Another good offensive game saw 4 players get 2 hits each as Lake Villa jumped on Arlington Heights with a 4 run 1st inning and a 2 run, 3rd to break the 4-4 tie and give them the lead that, this time, they didn't lose.

U-9 Dynamo dominates again

The Lindenhurst Dynamo U-9 boys remain as hot as a summer day, defeating the Carol Stream Panthers by the score of 7 to 1. Each and every player contributed to the Dynamo's eighth victory in the Bronze Division of the Illinois Soccer League.

The U-9 boys played very unselfish soccer with Austin Hahn leading the team with 2 assists and Brett McKenzie, Scott Newman, Jeremy Pohlman, and Vivek Gollapudi all dishing out one assist each. Six different Dynamo players scored, Brett McKenzie (2 goals) Austin Hahn (1 goal) Christopher Meyers (1 goal) Peter Niles (1 goal) Jeremy Pohlman (1 goal), Marek Smith (1 goal).

The Dynamo defense (Peter Niles, Vivek Gollapudi, Matthew Reimer, turned in another outstanding performance as the Lindenhurst goalies (Andy Schultz, Christopher Meyer, and Marek Smith) only had to touch the ball a total of eight times the entire 60 minute of play.

With one game left in the spring traveling schedule, the Dynamo has posted a very impressive record of 8 wins, 0 losses, and 1 tie.

Next game for the U-9 boys will be June 27 in the Green and White Tournament in Mt. Prospect.

MARGIN BARGAINS

When you are shopping for Adjustable Rate Mortgages (ARMs), the "margin" is almost as important as the initial rate. The margin is the percentage point about the average yields for Treasury notes on which future rate adjustments will be calculated.

Let's compare two hypothetical one-year ARMs. The first may have an initial interest rate of 7% with a 2.5 margin, while the second begins at 6 7/8% with a 2.75 margin. Both loans have rate caps of 2%. Suppose that at the end of the first year of the loan, the average of the one-year Treasury note yield has been 5 1/2%. For each loan, the lenders will add the margin to that 5 1/2% average yield. Thus the interest rate for the first loan would increase from 7% to 8%, and the second would go from 6 7/8% to 8 1/4%. While the first ARM had a slightly higher initial rate, it will have lower rates in subsequent years, unless the Treasury note rates increase enough to activate the annual caps on the amount of the increase. There is a wide variance among margins in ARMs offered by competing lenders, and this should be a factor when you decide on your loan.

Domino's, schools team up for students

With only a month left in the 1997-98 school year, Domino's Pizza and several area schools again teamed up to recognize achievement by local students. Domino's Pizza's Outstanding Student program is the largest student recognition program of its kind and so far this year has awarded local schools over 3,000 opportunities to reward positive behavior. The private award program is funded in Lake County by Steve Chiodo, president of Chiodo Corp. and Dan Shanahan, president of DDS Pizza Enterprises Inc. Both Domino's Pizza franchisees have headquarters in Gurnee.

"What a year we've had," exclaimed a jubilant Steve Chiodo. "This is a particularly exciting year because many of our school partners have already committed to the Outstanding Student program for next school year. That tells us that the students enjoy the recognition and that the program is a positive for the schools. As a Domino's Pizza Franchisee, I'm very proud to offer this program to area schools."

In addition to the renewal of schools mentioned by Chiodo, we're also receiving calls from schools that haven't taken advantage of the Outstanding Student Program in the past," continued Dan Shanahan. "We know that many parent organizations have asked us directly about the program. That means that the students are talking about it—and that makes our commitment even stronger."

Each school uses its own criteria for selecting their Outstanding Students. When a student is recognized, they receive a Certificate of Achievement along with a gift certificate good for a free pizza at 12 area Domino's Pizza locations. Shanahan operates the Domino's Pizza stores in Antioch, Beach Park, Fox Lake, Libertyville, Mundelein, Round Lake and Zion, and Kenosha, Wis., while Chiodo operates the stores in Gurnee and Waukegan.

In addition to the Outstanding Student Program, both franchisees sponsor various other school and community-oriented fundraising activities. For more information about Domino's Pizza school programs in Lake and Kenosha counties or about any of the other fundraising opportunities, contact Steve Chiodo at 223-8388 or Dan Shanahan at 625-0404.

AARP offering defensive driving course for seniors

By BENNETT PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Liability insurance discounts are available to drivers who take the 55

Alive driving course offered through the American Association of Retired Persons.

Mollie Clark, a state certified instructor for the course, said that 55

Alive is a driving program to help older drivers improve their skills, avoid traffic collisions and violations, and maintain their mobility and independence.

Clark will teach the next course Tuesday, Aug. 11 and Friday, Aug. 14 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The course has also been scheduled for Sept. 15 and 18, and for Oct. 13 and 16.

"All of them are going to be Tuesday and Friday mornings 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.," Clark said.

It is an 8-hour course divided into two sessions, the first half on Tuesday and the second half on Friday. People 55 years and older are eligible to take the course and receive a three-year insurance premium discount.

"It's being held at the First National Bank—Employee Owned which is at 485 Lake Street," Clark said. The bank is a co-sponsor of the sessions and will take telephone registrations at 847-838-2265.

"The class is limited to 30," she said. "There is a fee of $8 for the class."

"(It) is an AARP-sponsored, 8-hour defensive driving class to keep drivers safe."

Clark said, "The State of Illinois has mandated that any insurance company must give a discount on liability insurance for people who take the class," she said.

A certificate of completion will be provided at the end of the class and the discount is good for three years.

Clark said that mobility is an important way for people to stay healthy. Driving helps people get around in a community. This accident prevention class helps people feel more comfortable driving.

"It keeps them healthier longer. They don't stay at home. They get up and go," she said.

"There's a lot of safety hints we give," she said. "We work with Rules of the Road somewhat."

Clark said that the driver training program started in 1979, but this is the first time it has been offered in Antioch.

I used to think a hospital was a scary place.

Until Mom took me to Victory.

Kindness— The Victory Difference

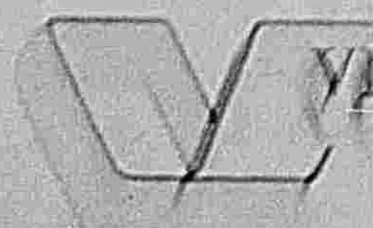

When my seven-year old had to go to the hospital for tests, she was a little nervous and so was I.

Some hospitals can be very impersonal. Would the people at Victory take the time to make my daughter comfortable? Could I ask all of my questions without feeling rushed?

Our experience at Victory couldn't have been better. Everyone was kind and courteous. They helped us by getting her to talk about the things she likes to do. Then they explained her test in words she could understand. I felt so relieved.

At Victory, everyone knows the value of human kindness. Friendly, competent medical professionals, dedicated employees and volunteers—working together to treat patients and respond to their individual needs. Maybe that's why so many Lake County residents choose Victory for their medical care.

Choose Victory. You'll recognize the difference.

Advisory council applicants sought

The Lake County Cooperative Extension Service with authorization by the University of Illinois Board of Trustees is seeking advisory council applications from Lake County residents.

The Council structure is primarily responsible for helping to plan and coordinate Extension programming. Once appointed, members of the Council have an opportunity to set program/audience priorities; assist with program delivery/evaluation; recruit financial and human resources; and serve as a formal liaison between the public and the Cooperative Extension Service.

Council members are appointed for a two year term and are selected with consideration given to diversity in geographic representation; occupation, training and experience; organizational memberships; race/culture/gender; interests; and priority needs and issues as identified in the CES long-range program plan. This assures the selection of Council members who are knowledgeable about clientele needs throughout Lake County. Cooperative Extension provides non-credit programming in youth development (including 4-H), horticulture, consumer economics and family life, community leadership/volunteerism, and nutrition and wellness. The council meets bi-monthly on the fourth Tuesday of the month at the Extension offices in Grayslake.

Individuals wishing to apply for Extension Council appointments should call the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. 223-8627 to receive an application. Application deadline is Aug. 10.

Lake County no stranger to cigar comeback

By JASON J. KING
City Editor

For some, they're a diversion, a form of relaxation after a long, stressful day on the job. For others, they just stink. No matter what your inclination, cigars have made a comeback, and Lake County is no exception.

On the golf course, in a bar or if some are lucky enough, in their own homes, white clouds of fragrant (to some) smoke, are filling the air as cigars continue to make a comeback.

Lake County has seen a number of new cigar stores open in the last year-and-a-half as merchants rush to grab the coat tails of the entire cigar craze.

The Humidor, in Antioch, Aromas Cigars, in Gurnee and Cigars and More, in Libertyville, are just three of the spots where cigar aficionados can find their favorite rods or look for new brands to expand their smoking palate.

From Coronas and Churchills to Robustos and Pyramids, Lake County smoke shops have got you covered.

"We've got over 8,000 sticks in there right now," said Roberto Sandoval, co-owner of Cigars and More, who boasts of having the largest walk-in, Spanish cedar humidor in Lake County. "If we don't have it, we'll get it for you."

The Libertyville smoke shop is the newest in the county, and also the most unique, offering patrons a large selection of stogies as well as fresh brewed coffee and something that most men covet. A place to enjoy their smokes indoors.

Sandoval, of Gurnee, said that he and co-owners Ken and Julie Neuman, of Zion, all worked in distribution together.

"One day, I said, 'I want to open a store,'" said Sandoval.

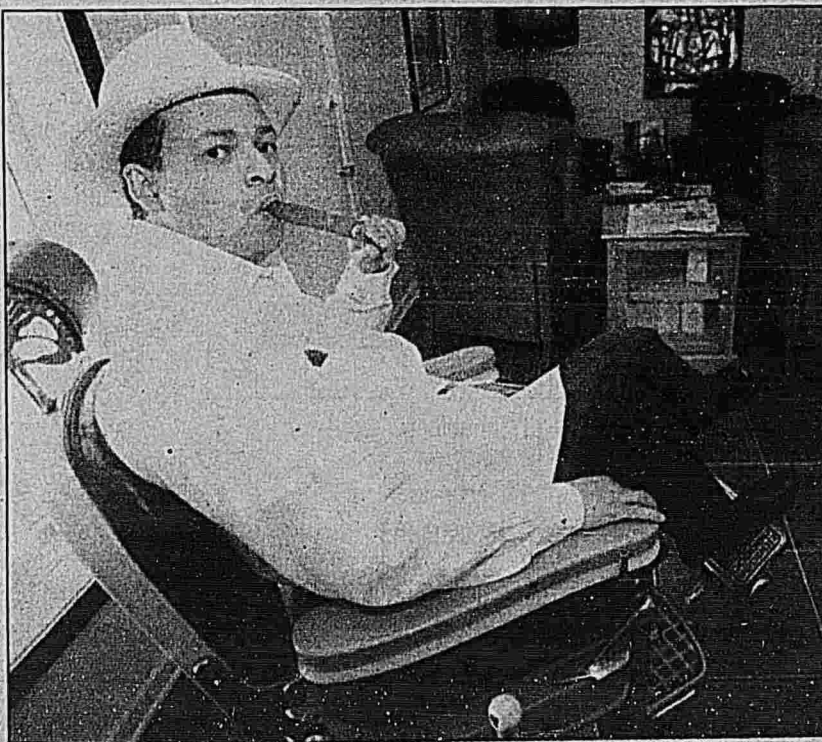

"And we said, 'we want to open one too,'" said Julie.

Not just a store, however.

Sandoval, who said he has been smoking since he was 18, wanted something different, something cozy, something like ...

"A living room. I told them I wanted a living room in the store," said Sandoval, lighting up a cigarette. "I want people to be able to watch TV, play dominoes, play shells, have a coffee and have a cigar."

"The problem we (smokers) have is that our

To work or not to work...that is this mom's question!

Dear Dr. Singer,
First, I love your column! Please keep doing it! I am a mom who has been working up until now.

Recently, my husband got a promotion that has really helped us financially and for the first time, I am really able to make the choice of staying home with my children or working. My kids are 2 and 4 and while I did stay home with them for the first few months, I did go back to work. Am I a terrible person?

My question to you is about the effect that both parents working has on kids. I do love my job and also love my kids. I don't necessarily want to leave my job. What do you think about this, and have you helped

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer,
Psy.D.

other people who have gone through this, too? L.L.

Dear L.L.,

No you're not a terrible person and you're also not the first person to make a decision like this. Once you have children, there is not cardinal rule that they must envelope your whole life!

There is also really no rule book on this one. It depends on several things: personal preferences, who you have watching your kids, how many hours you work, etc.

First of all, tell your husband congrats on the promotion. It is great for you to have that choice and I also appreciate your giving it thought! My opinion on this might be important to you, but your opinion has to come first. Keep that in mind as I write.

For many people two incomes are absolutely necessary and therefore both parents have to work. It sounds like that is where you've been for a long time. Also, there are many single parents that absolutely have to work. I first want to say that I don't want any working parents to read this and feel guilty or upset or in any way out of sorts, because I firmly feel that there are pro's and con's on both sides of this.

I also feel that kids are very resilient (more even than we are.)

There are many people who feel that if you're not home with your children during the first few years, that it causes some sort of problem. Again, I feel that it is the particulars of the situation that will cause problems and not the work itself.

Let me talk about both sides:

I think it's okay for both parents to work, as long as the work hours are not 24/7 for both. Obviously, it's a good thing to be able to see your children some part of the day. One of the arguments against both parents working is the fact that whomever they are staying with will be influencing their development and growth of ideas instead of you.

I'm not sure anything like that has ever really been proven. Certainly, if you are away 24/7 I would assume it's possible. If you have access to a family member (mom, aunt, etc.) who can take care of the child, you're closer to home and this "idea influencing" thing will also be closer to home.

Another argument against both parents working is the bonding thing. I have heard some people say that they believe that bonding is difficult when parent and child are never together except weekends. Again, if you're working 24/7, it's possible, but most people don't work those kinds of hours and certainly, one or the other of you see your children after work until bedtime. In that type of situation, I feel that bonding would be fine.

Let's talk about some positives about both parents working:

As long as it isn't 24/7, I think both parents working accomplishes

STICKS: Cigars making a comeback in Lake County wives won't let us smoke in the house," he continued. "We want the guy to be able to buy a cigar and smoke it here."

And smoke it he can in the smoking area in the back of the store. Four leather chairs, a television with surround sound, a coffee bar and enough ashtrays for everyone, combine to make the smokers feel comfortable, not castigated.

Aromas Cigars, in Gurnee Mills, has been open for a little over a year, and co-owners Paul Solsberger and Rick Martinez say business has never been better.

Solsberger, 54, a former commercial artist and Martinez, 53, a former insurance salesman, met while both harbored the idea of going into business for themselves.

"I always wanted to own a cigar store but the problem is getting cigars," said Solsberger. "Rick here held the answer. He grew up on a Cuban tobacco farm. He knew who to talk to."

"He wanted to open a cigar shop in Vegas," said Martinez, alluding to Solsberger's former dream. "We talked about it for a number of years."

The duo would settle on Gurnee as their smokers' haven, putting up an 8-foot by 20-foot walk-in humidor, in their Gurnee Mills shop. After one year of business, sales are up 33 percent.

The cigar business, however, is changing rapidly, as dealers and manufacturers of cigars deal with the after effects of the massive influx of new cigar brands.

"The cigar industry is changing a lot," said Solsberger. "We see a lot of cigars we call 'Don No Names' because they don't have the quality."

Solsberger said in the rush to grab a piece of the cigar resurgence, many new brands flooded the market. With flashy advertising and big claims, these "Don No Names" created a big buzz, then faded, after consumers and shops stopped buying them due to the poor quality of the smokes.

"The typical companies were unable to make the demand," said Solsberger on the shortage of old stand by brands experienced a year ago. "Some of the 'Don No Names' have already closed down."

Solsberger said he anticipates more of these second rate cigar companies to close shop before the cigar market place settles down.

"The market can only hold so much," said Martinez. "Who's going to stay in business? The one who knows what the hell they're doing."

No matter what happens in the market, smoking cigars is much like being in a fraternity or sorority.

"The best thing about cigars are the people involved, people in the business, people who smoke. Everybody's cool," said Sandoval, who's family hails from Panama. "We've all got something to talk about."

"It's a social business and it's a lot of fun," he continued. "People like to relax and smoke a cigar."

Solsberger agrees.

"While they're smoking, they're relaxing. It's meant to be a relaxation," he said. "The more and more people need to relax they need to find a catalyst for that relaxation."

Cigars are definitely a commitment. When a person lights one up, he or she is giving up at least a half hour of their time. The larger the cigar, the longer it takes to smoke. Allowing 30 minutes to an hour is normal when it comes to smoking a premium hand-rolled cigar.

Plus, the owners contend, cigars are not as bad for you as cigarettes.

"Cigars are an alternative to cigarette smoking," said Hector Capo, a representative of Miami Havana Cigars, the house brand of Cigars and More. "It's all natural. Making a cigar and making cigarettes are completely different processes. Cigarettes kill you."

"I believe you can enjoy a cigar without inhaling," said Martinez. "Cigarette (prices) are going to keep going up a lot. If you're going to pay $5 for a pack of cigarettes, I'd rather buy a cigar."

"We have five regulars who used to be big cigarette smokers," said Solsberger, a cigarette smoker himself. "Their wives are very happy."

You have to be strong this week, Aries. A lot of people are counting on you to guide them. Don't let the pressure get to you. Stay focused, and look at the facts. Try not to be swayed by your emotions. A loved one wants you to help him or her prepare for a big event. Do it — you're sure to enjoy yourself.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Don't be stubborn when it comes to affairs of the heart early in the week. You finally have a chance with that special someone. Don't let it slip away. A close friend is in trouble and needs your help. Do whatever you have to do to rectify the situation. He or she will appreciate your efforts.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

When it comes to an important financial decision, don't be too hasty, Gemini. You have a lot riding on this. Listen to what others have to say before you decide. An old flame wants to rekindle the romance. Go out with him or her, but don't make any commitments. There's a lot that you don't know about yet.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Your desire to get ahead may lead you astray this week. Don't give up all that you have until you know exactly what you're going to get. The grass isn't always greener on the other side. A loved one needs your advice about a personal problem. Be supportive, but be honest too.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Look at the bright side of things, Leo. Don't let the stress of everyday life get you down. While your situation may not be the best, there are a lot of others who are much worse off. That special someone has a surprise for you. Enjoy yourself — it's sure to lift your spirits for a while.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Your sincerity will be appreciated by a loved one late in the week, Virgo. While it won't be easy, you have to tell this person the truth about a family situation. He or she will take what you say to heart. A close friend stops by unexpectedly. Welcome him or her with open arms.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

A disagreement among business associates has you on edge early in the week. While it will be hard, don't let it bother you. There's nothing you can do about it anyway. So, just stay focused on your own work. A family friend reveals some interesting news to you. Try to be supportive.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

Stand your ground when it comes to a disagreement with a loved one during the middle of the week. He or she is on the verge of making a huge mistake. Try to stop him or her. That special someone calls it quits. While you are sad, keep your chin up. Deep down, you know that he or she wasn't the one for you.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Don't let a friend spoil your good mood this week, Sagittarius. Everything is going your way, so don't take this friend's harsh words to heart. He or she is going through a rough time and just has to vent. A close family friend turns to you for advice. Be honest.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Don't be bullheaded when it comes to a business decision this week. Listen to what others have to say. They might actually have the same goals as you. The person you've been seeing wants to make a commitment. Don't say yes right away. Think about what you want first. Once you say yes, it will be hard to go back.

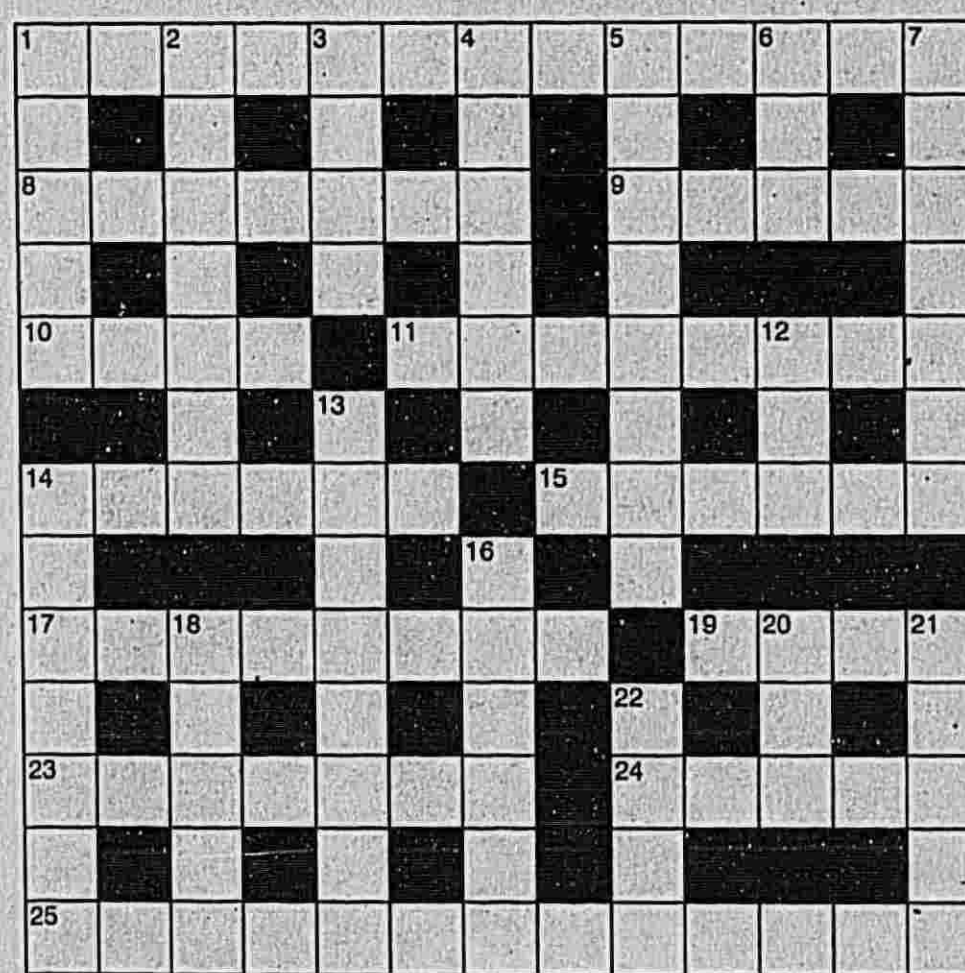

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Be practical early in the week, Aquarius. You can't do everything on your own. Accept help from friends and loved ones. They just want to see you succeed. A co-worker lets a secret slip. Keep it to yourself or you'll get in trouble.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Keep up the intensity this week, Pisces. The minute you slow down, someone will be there to take over where you leave off. Stay focused, and get everything you have to do done. While it will be stressful, your actions will be rewarded.

Ultimately, the miser must choose between the woman he desires and a money box that he has lost.

You were looney to bet on Utah!

oooh, I love it when I'm right!
The BULLS WON in six, just as I believed they would. However, we "believers" seemed scarcer this year. The "doubters" definitely had us outnumbered.

Doubters like my husband (also known as "the voice of doom"), who would watch the first two minutes of each game, especially the playoffs, and then predict, in an ominous tone, "The Bulls are going to lose."

I love it when he's wrong. And doubters like nearly every sportswriter in the city of Chicago. According to them, the Bulls spent the season with one foot on the court and the other foot in the grave. With each loss (despite having the best record in the East), they were speculating on how soon the Bulls management would be turning the Berto Center into an NBA Senior Citizen's Home.

One last-second slip by Jordan in the Indiana/Pacers series, and they were interviewing Poli-Grip executives to see if they were interested in Michael as their spokesman.

What the sportswriters seemed to forget (which seems odd considering their subjects) is that these are exceptional athletes. You don't win five (and now six) championships by jogging to McDonald's once a week.

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Ahear

Maybe a 35 year old sports-writer is old and tired. But a 35 year old athlete like Michael Jordan, who can afford a personal trainer for each and every one of his perfectly-toned and, may I add, highly attractive muscles, is hardly old and tired.

More likely, he's just tired of reading how old and tired he is.

But that's the media for you — always wagging their tongues. Whether it's "Crisis in the White House" or "Crisis in the Locker Room", they have to make a mountain out of a molehill or they'd never have enough good headlines for the week.

Thankfully, though, there is one guy in the city of Chicago who only wags his tongue when he means business. And anyone who doubts him has to be...well, looney. Which — surprise, surprise — inspired me to write the following song (sung to the tune of Patsy Cline's version of "Crazy"):

LOONEY

Looney
It's looney to doubt Michael Jordan

Oh, looney
Looney to bet on Malone

I know
He'll win rings as long as he wants to
And then someday
He'll leave me to peddle cologne.

Utah
Air sure is thin up in Utah Fans there thought Riff Raff could beat Underdo-oooooooooog

Oh, looney
The playoffs were driving me looney
But Michael kept tryin'
Till Utah was cryin'
Now I'm looney from worshipin' him.

Nervous
Now that it's done I'm still nervous
Wonderin'
What those two Jerrys' will do - oooooooooooooh

Oh, looney
That's where I'll go if Mike leaves me Alone here with Kukoc, a new team...a new coach
I'll go looney from watching them...lose.

The American Orient Express Brings Luxury Train Travel To The U.S.

by JIM WARNKEN,
President, North Star Travel, Inc.

Luxury train travel is back in America and we're sure not talking about Amtrak. Don't get me wrong. Amtrak offers affordable, comfortable train travel. But it's far from the golden era of rail travel my grandparents experienced in the 1940's and 50's.

Today Orient Express of America has brought luxury rail travel back to the U.S. by putting over millions of dollars into restoring 15 classic rail cars to create a train in the tradition of the legendary Orient Express of Europe, which has been running from Paris to Istanbul since 1883.

Hop onboard one of the train's two dining carriages and take your place at a table set with real china, silver, crystal and linen. Enjoy a gourmet meal prepared by master chefs.

After dinner take your place next to the baby grand piano in one of the club cars, exquisitely decorated in mahogany and brass, with custom carpets and fabrics of royal blue and gold. Or watch the scenery go by in the historic observation car at the end of the train.

When it's time to turn in for the night, retire to your mahogany paneled private sleeping cabin, complete with a large picture window, wash basin with hot and cold water, and toilet.

Ah, but it's more than beauty that this royal train has to offer. It's the deluxe rail journeys on your own private train that you'll remember most.

Choose the "The Antebellum South" for a journey, through haunting memorials and forts from the Civil War as well as estates and historic homes like Thomas Jefferson's Monticello, and Savannah's Owens-Thomas House.

The Jazz & Blues Express takes you through New Orleans French Quarter to Beale Street and Graceland in Memphis.

For a chance to see America's majestic west, there's the National Parks of the West tour, The Rockies & Yellowstone and The Great Northwest Rail Journey.

A real favorite is the Great Trans-Canada Rail Journey, a nine day rail trip from Montreal to Vancouver. Along the way you'll travel through spectacular Fraser River Canyon in British Columbia and crest the Continental Divide at Yellowhead Pass in the Canadian Rockies.

Each journey includes a complete program of lectures and presentations, and the services of a professional tour manager to assist you throughout your trip. Also included are all excursions, hotels, meals, baggage handling, gratuities to guides, escorts and drivers.

'Can't Hardly Wait' exudes adolescent angst

Can't Hardly Wait

Columbia Pictures

Directors

Harry Elfont
Deborah Kaplan

Starring

Jennifer Love Hewitt
Ethan Embry
Charlie Korsmo
Lauren Ambrose
Peter Facinelli
Seth Green
Jenna Elfman
Melissa Joan Hart

I was curious to find out whether I would be receptive and open-minded to this particular teen genre movie. After all, I'm of the generation (just never mind) that was witness to such teen classics as "Fast Times at Ridgemont movie review

Hope Stoddard

High," "Ferris Buehler's Day Off," "The Breakfast Club," "Risky Business," "Sixteen Candles," and "Pretty In Pink." Who could forget Anthony Michael Hall's lovable geek in "Sixteen Candles"? Or Jennifer Jason Leigh's growing pains in "Fast Times"? What about the ever-so-cool "I can get away with anything" Ferris Buehler and the eerily familiar delinquent-with-feelings played so well by Judd Nelson in "The Breakfast Club."

How would this movie's characters match up with the geeks, partyers, rah-rahs, spazoids, outcasts, goody-goodys, psychos, delinquents and sport-jocks that we know and love so well already? How would I be able to relate to the '90s version of teen angst? Up to now, I didn't even realize they made movies for teenagers that weren't directed by John Hughes and didn't star Molly Ringwald. Well, I can tell you that even though the characters in "Can't Hardly Wait" are likable and funny enough, they fell a little short of the teen movie characters I grew up with.

The entire movie revolves around a graduation bash at the home of a graduate whose parents just happen to be out of town. Jennifer Love Hewitt plays Amanda Beckett, a sweet and pretty "I can't believe I'm so popular" girl whose boyfriend is the school jock, Mike Dexter (played convincingly by Peter Facinelli).

After Mike breaks up with her on graduation day to free himself for college women, Amanda shows up at the bash and is pursued by the whole gamut of male party-goers, including a second cousin. What she doesn't realize is that Preston, who has been in love with "the real Ethan Embry and Jennifer Love Hewitt star in "Can't Hardly Wait," a teen flick that can be predictable, but contains some laughs featuring the supporting cast, which includes Lauren Ambrose, Charlie Korsmo, Seth Green, Melissa Joan Hart and Jenna Elfman.

Amanda" since the first time he saw her, is at the party trying to work up the nerve to give her a letter he's spent four years revising.

Preston (played just a little too enthusiastically by Ethan Embry) gets moral support from friend Denise Fleming, played by Lauren Ambrose, the teen version of Janeane Garofalo. Jenna Elfman (TV's "Dharma") brightens up the film when she interrupts Preston's phone call to a local radio station at a phone booth. Elfman's character, an exotic dancer in an angel costume, is the only one I found myself relating to, as she tells Preston of her fateful meeting with Scott Balo, the love of her teen life. The movie's message sinks in here—fate can take you so far, but then it's up to you to make it happen.

Preston eventually works up the courage to confront Amanda, of which the result is somewhat predictable. The real highlights of the film are provided by the supporting characters, and include a tortured geek's intricate payback to the school jock; a bubbly Barbie-doll-like Melissa Joan Hart (TV's "Sabrina"), whose mission is to get everyone to sign her yearbook; and the sex-crazed homeboy wannabe Kenny Fisher (played by Seth Green), who ends up in an unlikely place with an unlikely partner.

All in all, the film is entertaining and worth the price of the ticket, but is not worthy of "classic" status, as are the above-mentioned flicks. Teens will love it, but those who are closer to middle-age than puberty might want to wait for the video release, rather than be embarrassed by being a "senior" member of the theater audience.

"Can't Hardly Wait" rates two-and-a-half out of five popcorn boxes. Until next time, happy movie-going!

Muscle soreness—the aching result of an active lifestyle

How to stop muscle pain from slowing you down

A weekend softball game, a football toss with the kids in the park, beach volleyball, planting the marigolds, or loading that one-of-a-kind flea market antique into the car—all contribute to a sense of well-being and a satisfying active lifestyle. However, unless you have a regular workout program that includes stretching and weight or resistance training at least three times a week, any of these physical activities can produce painful muscle soreness and stiffness.

An active lifestyle is bound to produce some aches and pains, especially as we mature into adulthood. But the positive benefits from exercise and activity far outweigh the muscle soreness that can come with it. A sedentary lifestyle of a couch potato is unhealthy. In contrast, an active lifestyle which engages the muscles, building muscle mass and promoting flexibility, is one of the most positive ways you can take control of your health and your future.

Why do muscles hurt?

Muscles which are not built up for a specific type of activity are most prone to pain. (A weekend softball game can be a killer for those who are desk-bound on weekdays.) Building up muscles actually increases the number of filaments which comprise the muscle fibers, thereby strengthening them. When weaker, thinner muscles are asked to perform, that is, to lengthen and create tension, localized damage to the muscle fiber membranes often occurs, resulting in pain.

But, when muscles are lengthened and tensed beyond their ability, the body's natural repair process kicks in. Substances are released which stimulate the muscle's pain receptors and create inflammation. Often, the muscle tissue swells, creating pressure which further stimulates pain receptors and results in stiffness.

How can common muscle pain be prevented?

First and foremost, regardless of your age, maintain flexibility with a regular stretching program. Adequate conditioning and correct form for a specific activity are also important, as is using the proper equipment. Many people enjoy an active lifestyle but forego the conditioning that would protect them from muscles aches and pains. If conditioning were viewed as protection against aches and pains, perhaps more occasional athletes would embrace a modest but regular flexibility and strength-training program. And remember, consult a physician before beginning any new exercise regimen.

A number of common-sense techniques can prevent some of the aches and pains which result from recreational activities:

- Warm-up and cool-down exercises before and after sports activities are a must. Stretching during cool-down enables disorganized muscle fiber to realign and thus stay healthy.
- During exercise breaks, keep warm and flexible by stretching.
- Start off slow and build strength and technique over time when learning a new sport.

What to do when pain strikes

If minor swelling and throbbing occurs as the result of activity, rest/ice/compression/elevation—known in the fitness world as "RICE"—during the first 24 to 48 hours is recommended.

For minor and common muscle aches and pains, one of the best and simplest remedies is application of topical analgesic, such as the leading brand, BENGAY (including a new fresh-scent BENGAY S[®]P[®]A, which effectively targets the aches and pains of an active lifestyle with its Site Penetrating Action).

Heat in all its variations—including a heating pad, warm bath with mineral salts, even an old-fashioned hot water bottle—can also be used, although these are only practical if the pain keeps you at home. Heat should be used for at least 15 minutes every two hours. For safety reasons, heating pads should not be used throughout the night. (BENGAY products should not be used in conjunction with heating pads.)

During the night, or for anyone who wants or needs to be out and about, an effective approach is a topical analgesic, such as BENGAY S[®]P[®]A.

Additionally, an important part of recovering from muscle aches and pains is to start stretching exercises as part of your fitness program. Not only will stretching accelerate the muscle's return to health, but it will help realign muscle fibers in the proper direction. Conversely, without stretching therapy, the muscle's flexibility could be impaired. Strengthening and stretching should be gentle, progressive in intensity and never cause pain.

Following these tips before, during and after physical exertion should keep your muscles healthier, and your lifestyle as active as you want it to be.

MUSCLE FACTS:

• How many muscles does the average person have? 640.

• At 25 years of age, how much of an average person's body is composed of muscle tissue? Forty percent. At 80 years of age, muscle mass is reduced to nearly half.

• How many types of muscles does the body have? Three—skeletal muscle, which is usually attached to bones and consciously controlled; smooth muscle, found in the walls of internal organs; and cardiac muscle, which has a specialized structure to ensure it never gets tired of doing its job.

• What is the difference between muscles, tendons and ligaments? Muscles are the body's movement devices, executing movement by contracting. At each end, the main bulk of the muscle tapers into tendons, which anchor themselves in the bone. Whenever two bones connect to form a joint, a ligament holds them in place.

• What are muscles made of? Muscles are composed of fascicles, bundles of densely packed muscle fibers, each about the thickness of a human hair. Muscle fibers are in turn made up of smaller threads called fibrils and these in turn are comprised of microscopic filaments of proteins, actin and myosin.

• How do muscles work? Muscles work in pairs, in opposing teams, to enable a full range of motion. One set bends and one set straightens. Biceps and triceps, for example, bend or straighten the arm; and the shin and calf muscles, extend or flex the foot.

• Why do muscles get fatigued? With intense exercise, the lungs cannot take in enough oxygen to keep the muscles supplied. Consequently, the muscles produce more waste products such as lactic acid, which cause fatigue and cramping.

• Why does inflammation and swelling occur in muscles? When a muscle is excessively pulled or strained, even in proper weight training, fibers can be ruptured or torn. This triggers a natural repair reaction that rebuilds and strengthens muscles.

SINGER:

To work or not to work?

two things:

First, I think it teaches kids a good example and idea of work ethic. Kids that I have met, who have grown up with both parents working don't seem to look at work with as much disdain. That can be seen as a positive. Certainly, for stay at home moms, there is also a lot of work involved and that lesson can be taught to kids equally as well. It usually isn't formally taught, but should be.

Another positive about both parents working is the break that you get from each other. I see a lot of burned out moms and dads. Work is a good way to take a break from each other. Generally, upon return to each other both are refreshed and are better with each other. "Stay at home moms" should also make time for breaks!

Positives of not working:

These are obvious as the only strong influence your child has is you. To teach your good ideals and values. Now, this does not mean that kids without "stay at home moms" don't have good values. They learn them too. In different ways and at different times. The time you spend together at home can be priceless. Another positive I hear about all the time is the fact that kids tend to get sick all the time in daycare. This is just logical since they are with other children. Again, this is personal preference.

I think the best way to decide something like this is to go with your gut feeling, because if you feel that one way or the other, you're missing out, you will walk around all day with resentment. That is also not healthy for children. If you both have to work, don't sweat it. Make the time you have with your children count. If you feel that you want to work but don't have to and feel guilty, maybe do a compromise-work less hours or maybe part-time. If you don't want to work and want to spend time with your kids but can't quite afford it, make some lifestyle changes so there's less to afford. Again, it comes down to people's preferences.

Here are some rules of thumb for this topic:

- Don't operate with guilt,
 - Do research within yourself and outside (there is a lot of research on this topic) of yourself to determine what your best action is.
 - If you work, try hard to get family to stay with the child. If not, thoroughly research the facility you will use and make sure that the people there are acceptable to you and somewhat like you.
 - If you want to work-do it, but try to spend some time after work with your child. It is important for you to spend time with your child. I'm not sure that has to be all day!
 - If you don't have to work and can stay home all day and want to do that-do it and make sure you take time for breaks.
 - Try to be at home with your child, if you can, for the first few months.
- I hope this has helped. If you have further questions, you can contact me.

Native medicine traditions are the world's most ancient traditions for personal growth, empowerment, and healing. The Shamanic traditions recognize we are beings of conscious energy and that true healing, whether the problem is physical, emotional, or spiritual, only occurs when we access and alter the energetic component of our disease. The shaman uses many techniques to reach the energetic level of a disease including the classic shamanic journey, guided imagery, soul retrieval, and directly touching the luminous body. Shamanic healing done in a safe, secure environment affects miraculous changes on the physical, emotional, and spiritual levels. Join Dr. Richard Sandore, a Western trained physician who now practices shamanic healing, for an experiential introduction to healing and empowerment in the shamanic traditions. Call 800/940-2822 to register.

Landscaping deserves the same attention as room decorating

'Landscaping, like the rooms in your home, all serve a function and are all connected'

By MIKE GRECO
Correspondent

As a homeowner, moving into a new home or adding on to an existing home, is thought out, designed and then implemented by builders and other trades.

Why not do this with your landscape? Just throwing in a tree in the front and some bushes around the foundation of your home is not landscape. It's just a cosmetic touch-up and at times ends up costing more because time was not spent in thinking through the overall concepts of what a landscape will bring to your site. We look at residential landscapes as a series of outdoor rooms which possess functions similar to those inside your home.

Plants are looked upon as you may look at materials to finish your walls, floors and ceilings of the rooms in your home. I like to break down a residential setting into sections.

The Entry-way: List any current problems; are they visual or functional? We find in the newer homes many of the sidewalks leading to the front door are too small and barely functional. How can this be minimized or even eliminated? What type of material can be used in it's place? Should we pull off the architecture of our home?

Should we use brick or bluestone or exposed aggregate for a new walkway? How large should the new walkway be? Should it be free-form or have angles to it's shape?

This seems like a lot of questions to ask, however, by thinking through this, a great landscape can be achieved instead of just another landscape that looks as if it was done on one weekend because there was some time, and you liked that one red bush you saw the other day.

Landscaping, like the rooms in your home, all serve a function and are all connected. Most of the activity in one's home may be in the family room or recreation room and therefore has the proper furniture, pool table, TV, computer or whatever activity the family enjoys in this particular room. Your back yard of your site generally has the most activity, so list your favorite activities.

Examples: If you like to play volleyball or Frisbee, then the middle of your yard needs to be clear and plantings along the sides of your property will better serve your site. If you are an avid gardener and like to relax on the patio when finished in the garden; surround yourself with gardens and have the patio in the middle of your gardens.

Try to list all the positive elements and qualities of each area of your site as well as the negatives. Remember, good landscaping should eliminate any negatives. Believe it or not, function is first in landscaping, and eliminates many problems.

Try to visualize your site in the future. Do you want a formal or informal look? Do you want an open prairie feel or wooded look?

What kind of hardscape materials do you want on your site? How will fences, walls, and brick or slate stone pavements affect your landscape? The more thought you give your outdoor rooms (landscaping) the better it will serve your lifestyle.

Landscaping should be considered interior decorating for the exterior of your home. It requires planning, budgeting and key consideration of your lifestyle to be successful.

Another fun thing I like to do is list my favorite plants to use on one's site and use them whenever possible. If you don't know many plants, just list colors and textures or show pictures of a desired effect.

Finally, put together a budget you are willing to spend to achieve your landscape over the next three to four years.

If possible, over a one or two year period.

All your ideas may then be put together in a landscape concept that will serve you and your loved ones for years. If you cannot come up with many ideas, remember the painter and wallpaper trades that did a great job in your home? Well, there are some very good landscape architects and contractors that will help you decorate your outdoor rooms.

Getting to know your flowers may lead to better blooms

by ROBERT PERILLA

We all want to wake up and smell the flowers, but wouldn't it be nice to know what they are? Flowers truly are an expression of oneself. We use flowers to say many different and important things that make life more meaningful: "I love you"; "I share your success"; "I share your sorrow". Think about it. Flowers can turn a shapeless mound of unappealing dirt into a thing of beauty.

Perhaps this is the year that you are finally going to express yourself by creating a garden. What are your favorite colors? Do you know which of the 10,000 available varieties will create the look that you want? While you're at it, you might consider flowers that don't all bloom at the same time, leaving your garden flowerless for the rest of the year.

Your search for answers is now over thanks to a comprehensive, three-book set of photo identification guides for the world's most popular flowers, house plants and garden plants. Until now, this reference collection, which contains more than 1,700 individual full-color photographs, was only available to floral professionals.

The books are published by The Flower Council of Holland, the information arm of the Netherlands' multibillion dollar, high-tech horticulture industry. Although Holland is small in size—only one-third the size of the state of Illinois—it is the world's leading exporter of flowers (59 percent of the total) and plants (48 percent of the total). The Flower Council's global Cut Flower, Garden Plant and House Plant books are recognized throughout the U.S. as essential references by florists and horticulturists.

The appeal of flowers is universal. In fact, working with flowers and plants (gardening, flower displaying and arranging) is our number one hobby. More Americans devote leisure time to flowers than to tennis, golf and fishing. It is something you can enjoy regardless of your age, your sex or the amount of money you have in your bank account.

Flowers and plants in each book are pictured and listed alphabetically. Each variety also has a cross-reference listing for its common name in nine different countries. For example, what we call a lilac, in England is a syringa flower. The Cut Flower book contains individual photographs of the world's most popular flowers. The flower guide portrays and identifies more than 70 different rose varieties. Now you can finally give a variety name to that flower you once could only describe as a "lovely pink rose." This handy book also has tips on daily and weekend care and treatment.

To find out about your indoor plants, turn to the global House Plant (or Pot Plant) book. This guide tells you which of the more than 700 potted plants need full sunlight, which should avoid bright light, and which need very little light. It also details which plants should be kept moist, moderately moist or moderately dry between watering and which need misting. Plant lovers with children and pets will also be interested in the easy-to-read symbol that identifies those plants that are harmful if eaten.

The Garden Plant book is a reference guide to perennials, bedding and tub plants, climbers, trees and shrubs. It tells you how much sunlight each plant requires and the time period in which it will bloom.

All three books have an easy-to-read color graph under each color photograph which identifies seasonal availability. All the pertinent information in each book is printed in English, Spanish, French, German, Italian and Dutch, making them truly universal. Each book is printed on heavy coated stock, measures 8 inches by 4 inches, and can be easily carried in a purse or pocket.

All flower lovers can benefit from the following tips for extending the life of your cut flowers:

- When flowers arrive in your home, immediately slant cut all stems with a sharp blade.

- Make sure to remove any leaves from the bottom of the flower stems so that they don't come in contact with the water in the vase. Leaves can pollute the water and diminish the life of your flowers.

- Keep your vase of flowers out of draughts and bright sunlight.

- Resist the tendency to use the flowers as a centerpiece for fruits and vegetables. Although the display will look beautiful, fruits and vegetables produce an ethylene gas which will quickly age your flowers.

- Don't buy roses if they are still green. Make sure that the buds have sprung. Roses should be kept in water temperature that measures between 36 and 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

- Unlike other flowers, the stem of the hyacinth should not be cut. Place a hyacinth in a vase with a piece of the bulb attached into the vase water.

- No matter how little space is available in your home, there is always room for indoor plants. The Global House Plant Book provides helpful information on care and watering.

You can purchase individual copies of any of The Flower Council of Holland source books for $12 plus $4.95 shipping and handling. The complete three-book set is offered at a special price of $30 plus $5.95 shipping and handling. Books can be ordered by credit card, check or money order made payable to Public Relations Marketing. Mail orders, including checks or credit card information, should be sent to Global Flower Guides, Department C, P.O. Box 508, Glenwood Landing, New York 11547. Fax orders can be sent to (516) 621-3923.

Gardeners in their glory

With this hot spell, the gardens (both veggie and flower) will be taking off like wild. With the advent of this hot weather, remember to keep the garden well watered. Whenever possible, while watering try to keep the hose off the foliage of the plants, too wet foliage creates an environment that is ripe for spreading fungus and disease. It is best to water from the bottom. I like to take the nozzle off my hose and just lay it down on the dirt and saturate the garden in that manner. The plants take up much more water this way, then when sprinkled with an overhead sprinkler.

Besides watering, with a rapid growth spurt, it is important to keep fertilizing. This is the key growing season, so the plants are definitely hungry. Fish emulsion fertilizer is one of my favorites, it really matches my plants tower. It comes in a liquid concentrated form, just mix the with water. Follow directions on the label. You can find fish emulsion at any garden nursery center. Chicken manure is also available in liquid form, that is easy to use. My grandmother used to bury the heads and insides (guts) of the fish my uncles would catch in her garden, and her garden grew fantastically. Every now and then, I "Miracle Grow" my garden (once or twice a season), to give it an extra boost. Remember, to always water before fertilizing, so as not to burn the leaves of the plants. This is extremely important. If I've said it a million times, it is not enough—compost, compost, compost.

Composting will make your garden grow like mad. Now with all the fruit in season, is the time to bury the fruit peels, rinds, etc. It will decompose fast, especially in the hot weather. Mulching also benefits your plants, in the fertilizing effort, and mulching also conserves water and holds down the weeds. It is never too late to mulch, I add mulch all season long.

Over the weekend my family visited relatives in Michigan, and I brought back 20 pounds of sweet cherries. Nothing like cherries, my personal opinion, of course. The gal at the orchard told me she freezes them in ziplock bags, and when you want a snack to pull out a bag and don't allow them to thaw completely, she says it's like eating them fresh. She freezes them on a cookie sheet, so they don't clump together. I'll be making some pies this week.

Strawberries have been ripe for the picking—locally as well. Berry season—yum, yum. Until next week, peace.

Church brings ExtraCare to Alzheimer's victims

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

A mission to help others in the struggle with Alzheimer's Disease has produced ExtraCare, a successful and affordable day program operated out of Wildwood Presbyterian Church.

ExtraCare was founded a year ago, by the church, but is a separate social service agency and is run by a board of eight directors including Wildwood Presbyterian Minister Greg Bostrom.

ExtraCare serves people in the early to mid-stages of Alzheimer's Disease. The goal of the program is to enrich the lives of the program guests through social interaction, physical activity and creative activities. This program also provides family caregivers with a break from their awesome responsibilities.

Director Leila Schaper is a licensed social worker. She is the only full time employee in the program, but is assisted by volunteers who serve anywhere from one day a month to every week. She utilizes a minimum of two volunteers per day with the current number of guests. That number would increase if they added people to the program she explained.

Schaper said the wife of a guest once told her she couldn't manage without the respite ExtraCare give her.

The woman Schaper said like many others spends 24 hours with her husband making sure he doesn't wander off and easing his confusion.

Currently there are seven guests which attend ExtraCare. Schaper said they would like to serve more and could accept up to 12 persons.

Requirements for enrollment at extra care include: being mobile with little assistance, guests must be continent, they must be able to feed themselves and must have a physician diagnosis of Alzheimer's or a related condition.

The program cost is minimal at $15 per day. Schaper said they would like to spread the word about their facility because she believes there are many more people out there who could benefit from ExtraCare, but they simply don't know it exists. She is encouraging people who may know of someone interested in the program to call her.

Tuesdays and Fridays ExtraCare guests arrive at 11 a.m. Schaper said the day begins with a slow paced activity such as table games and they may sing a song.

The guests all bring their own lunch and eat together in the activity room. After lunch they participate in gym activities and in the warm weather months they walk down by the lake. Schaper said they spent many afternoons playing horseshoes by the lake last year.

After gym they settle down with craft activities. A therapy dog visits a couple times per month and occasionally they have multimedia presentations.

Every day revolves around a theme. Sometimes it gets difficult to come up with new ideas, but Schaper is creative.

March 3 they celebrated National Noodle Month by making noodle art. For St. Patrick's Day they are planing a photo trip to Ireland and will have Shamrock Shakes for a snack. Other themes for March include "Remembering Work Life," "Spring has Spring," and "Luck Friday the 13th" on Friday the 13.

The guests like the stability of the program. Many Alzheimer's victims don't adjust well to new environments so staying on a schedule and coming to the same place every week gives them a change of pace without upsetting them.

The majority of the guests live with a spouse according to Schaper. Some have been referred to ExtraCare through the caregiver support group operated by the lake County Health Department. Others have heard of it through newspaper articles and friends.

Often times family members have difficulty in utilizing a place such as ExtraCare because they feel guilty for not shouldering all the care for their relative.

The program is funded through a private three-year grant. The church also donates the use of the facility. They occasionally receive donations from community groups and the church.

Storytellers to entertain LCCS

Tandem storytellers Jim and Karen Decker will entertain members of the Lake County Council for Seniors at their regular July 2 meeting. The "Double Deckers" live in Libertyville, and have delighted audiences of all ages from Minnesota to Kentucky.

The Deckers are an amazing husband-wife duo, know for their boisterous, bantering stories. They deliver twice the fun and two times the magic in their smooth, integrated style (not surprising because they are both twins). Their tales of humor and goodwill, will leave you, as one listener put it, feeling as if you are "sitting on a star."

The meeting is held at 9:30 a.m. in the community room at State Bank of the Lakes in Grayslake. The meetings are open to members and non-members alike.

Information about the meeting, or about the Lake County Council for Seniors may be obtained by calling the LCCS office at 847-244-1720.

Is your home-based business properly insured?

As the number of in-home businesses steadily increases, it is important to double-check your insurance policies to make sure you and your business are properly protected.

Do homeowners' insurance policies cover home-based businesses? It depends on the type and extent of business you do in your home, and what type of homeowners' policy and endorsements you have?

As a rule, standard homeowner policies are intended to provide coverage for building and personal property. They also provide bodily injury and property damage liability coverage related to home ownership. These standard policies do provide some limited coverage for business personal property. For example, and this varies among insurance companies, you may have coverage for up to $1,200 for business property like desks or filing cabinets. The coverage is less if your loss occurs away from home, or "off-premise." It is important to know that these standard homeowner policies do not include liability coverage for business.

You can add liability coverage to your homeowners' policy for some types of in-home businesses if you pay additional premium. Most companies offer these additional options on your homeowners' policies for the following types of businesses:

1. Offices, schools and studios; including accountants, piano teachers, dance instructors and photography studios.
2. Small service occupancies. Examples are barber and beauty shops and tailors. Excluded are appliance service, electronics repair and engine repair.
3. Child and home day care. Normally, the additional coverage you can purchase under your homeowners' policy applies for only a few children (one to three, or four to six children); and extends liability coverage for incidental off-premise activities, such as trips to a park.

Light manufacturing and assembly businesses, as well as in-home businesses that have "off-premise" exposures, are normally covered by a business policy. Business policies provide additional business coverage's which are not provided by a homeowners' policy. These coverage's include liability coverage "on and off-premise"; product and completed operations coverage; personal injury/advertising liability; contractual liability; business income; extra expense and accounts receivable coverage's.

Liability coverage is an important consideration because an individual working out of his or her home could be found financially responsible for injuries sustained by a client if the individual is negligent and found liable.

Goshgarian judgement comes under scrutiny

Complaint filed with commission

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Managing Editor

The Illinois Judicial Inquiry Board has filed a formal complaint against Lake County Circuit Court Judge John R. Goshgarian, charging conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice.

The misconduct includes: harassment of a jury member, inappropriate conduct toward a court reporter, the use of profanity in the court room and making sexual remarks about a fellow judge.

The complaint was filed by the inquiry board with the Courts Commission, June 22.

"The complaint goes to the court's commission and he has 21 days to answer just like in any other civil action procedure," said Kathy Twine, general counsel and executive director of the judicial inquiry board.

The Courts Commission may rule to dismiss the case, censure, reprimand or remove the judge from office.

Goshgarian has the option of requesting an extension to answer the complaint.

Goshgarian has served as an Associate Judge of the Circuit Court of the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, Lake County from 1983 to 1997 and has served as a Circuit Court Judge from 1987 to the present.

Under Illinois' two-tiered justice system, Goshgarian had the opportunity to appear before a "4-D" hearing of the judicial inquiry board and respond to allegations against him.

Twine refused to comment on what the judge's remarks were during the hearing, but did say he appeared to defend the allegations.

Following the hearing, at least five of the seven members of the inquiry board present, agreed to file the complaint with the court commission.

"I cannot tell you if it was unanimous, but I can say at least five agreed. It is necessary to have five votes to forward the allegations," Twine said. Twine also refused to comment on who brought the complaint forward to the inquiry board.

There are four incidents mentioned in the complaint:

- Inappropriate conduct toward juror Arminda Rogers Badgerow.
- Inappropriate conduct toward Assistant States Attorney Daniel Kleinhubert.
- Inappropriate conduct toward court reporter Beth DiGiacinto.
- Use of obscene language in communications with attorneys practicing before him.

In the Badgerow incident, Goshgarian is alleged to have approached her Sept. 17, 1997, in her place of work about her service on the jury hearing the Blair Haltom case.

Goshgarian is said to have raised his voice and berated her for the jury's verdict calling the jury "stupid" and "gutless" for its not guilty verdict and said it was the "worst" verdict he had seen in years.

Goshgarian is alleged to have told Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Kleinhubert from the bench in open

NBC 5 meteorologist tells her story; urges support for LaCASA

By STEVE PETERSON

Shelly Monahan is one individual who is on a mission.

A rape victim 18 years ago, the Chicago NBC-Channel 5 meteorologist has survived and brings her own message to women's groups and those fighting against sexual assault. Locally, that effort is led by the Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault.

"Eighteen years ago, I was a rape victim. Since, I have given 2,500 talks about sexual assault. I speak of the power of positive thinking and how I overcame the rape with my belief in God," Monahan said.

Now, she feels blessed with two daughters and a husband. She has been in Chicago for one year in a 20-year career in TV weather which has taken her to Spokane, Wash., Sacramento and Seattle.

"I feel you should give back to your community. Everytime I hear about a sexual abuse story, I become sick," Monahan said.

The individual who raped her 18 years ago on a dark stretch of road in Spokane, Wash. was actually stalking her. The suspect is serving 75 years to life in prison for other rapes he committed, although he was not convicted of raping the TV personality.

Monahan described the events of that night to an interested audience at a LaCASA golf outing in Gurnee.

"People should be held accountable," she said.

She said she firmly believes in the efforts of LaCASA.

Monahan always wanted to be a television personality since childhood.

Family Centered Services prepares for fifth year of county funding

By LIZ THOMSEN
Staff Reporter

Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) programs have often taken a bad rap for misguided programs.

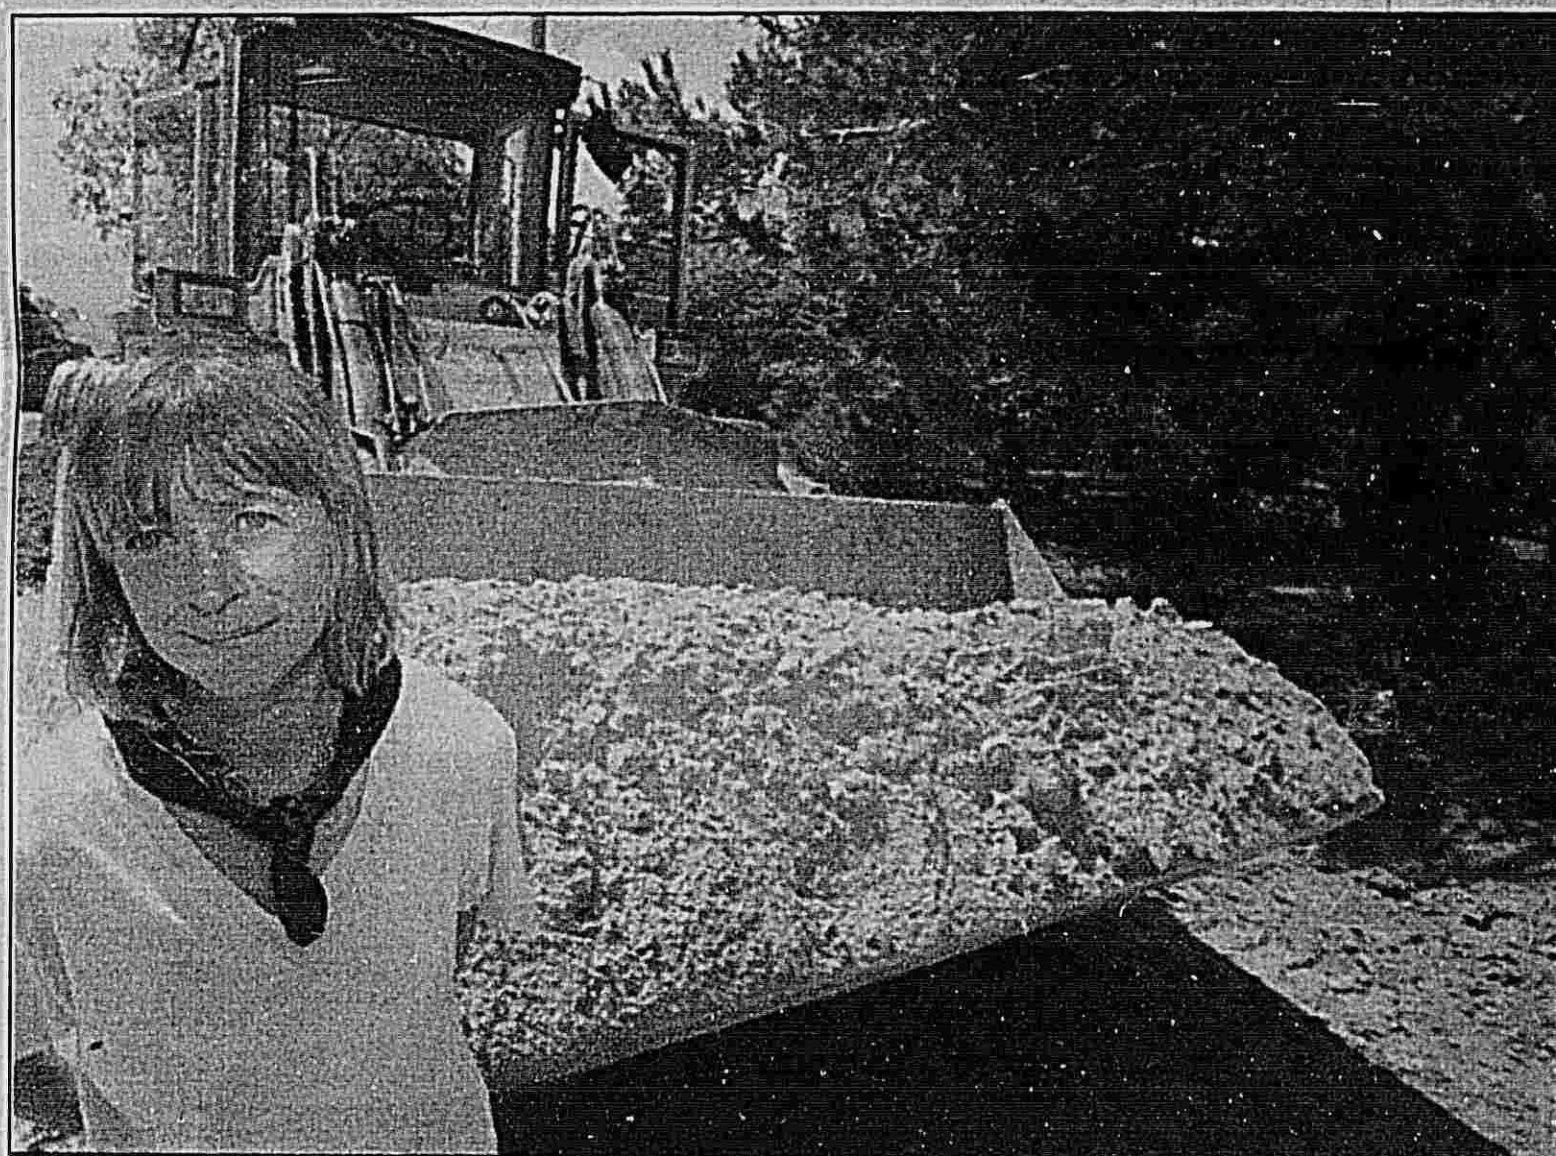

But for Lake County, this is the DCFS program that works. Family Centered Services, a Waukegan based county organization that works with DCFS to make recommendations on funding, has served over 800 Lake County families this year.

The agency has bidder's conferences for fiscal year 1998/99 scheduled in three local communities to offer funding for agencies that provide child abuse, neglect and prevention services.

A bidder's conference is the county's way of encouraging organizations that want funding to submit proposals.

They have over $150,000 in funds to distribute this year, according to Elizabeth Nash, Director of Family Centered Services, whose enthusiasm is contagious as she talks about the program.

"It has been a dream come true. We spent a lot of time designing exactly what we wanted the facility to look like. There is a sense of peacefulness, safety, calming effect that is visible right away," Torrie Flink, executive director of LaCASA, said.

The LaCASA-Zacharias Center at 4275 Grand Ave. is also a plus for staff. They must deal with the real issue of secondary trauma, Flink said. La-

CASA has a staff of four counselors.

Its services include: a 24-hour a day crisis line;

Child Assault Prevention - to teach children about "personal safety" issues and how to protect themselves;

Court advocacy: attend legal proceedings of sexual assault cases in Lake County Circuit Court.

Medical advocacy: to respond to Lake County hospitals when a sexual assault survivor is present.

Flink said counting preventing and outreach efforts, 20,000 people learned of LaCASA services.

The first women's golf outing at Bittersweet Golf Course in Gurnee was organized by Claudia Salstone, and the golf committee. Sponsors were: Abbott Laboratories, Manpower Temporary Services; Pfanziehl Laboratories and Precision Plating Co. A silent auction was also held.

TAKE FIVE: Making a difference

"We know for a fact that this is working," said Nash, talking of programs that have received funds. "For example, we were able to create a Zion/Benton High school daycare program called Bright Beginnings, for teen moms. That's a very high at risk category. None of the girls in our program were written up by DCFS."

Nash feels strongly that she can make a difference in families' lives, and according to many, she has. Round Lake Park Mayor Ila Bauer knew her work in Family Centered Services and asked her to advise Round Lake on how to apply for grants.

As an interested parent representative from Zion, Nash attended County DCFS meetings. Now she is the one woman dynamo behind Family Centered services. She feels it is important to stress prevention, before DCFS intervenes. Family Centered Services has funded programs from a Parenting Mentorship program through Lake County Health Department, to Project Path and Girl Scouts of America.

"I've been in the schools. I've really seen families struggle. I've seen families on the edge," said Nash.

Family Centered Services is committed to finding sources for funds and is willing to link family agencies together so they can work more efficiently. Nash offers technical assistance in setting up grant proposals as well.

Nash has a little money to spread over a big area in Lake County. She encourages any organizations interested in donating more funds to contact Family Centered Services at 872-9142.

Keeping families together and preventing abuse and neglect before it happens, is a vital part of what gives Nash her energy. Effectively placing funds has been a side benefit of that cause.

"A lot of times families just don't know what services are offered," said Nash. "They feel so alone. It's my mission to let people know about the services."

With Family Centered Services, she helps find funds for programs as well.

JUDGEMENT: Complaint filed against Goshgarian court to "F--- you and your office." The remark was made in response to Kleinhubert not contesting a request from the assistant public defender for a continuance of a trial date in a case. This occurred in October 1997.

Court Reporter DiGiacinto was among a group of court reporters who signed a petition to then Chief Judge Stephen Walter, expressing concern that Goshgarian had disregarded the ordinary selection process in selecting his permanent court room reporter. The petition was dated June 19, 1996.

Later, when she worked in his court room, he refused to sign a payment voucher for her and later wrote on the voucher: "maybe you should think before signing petitions."

Goshgarian is also alleged to have called Judge Barbara Gilleran Johnson a C--- to fellow attorneys.

Attempts to reach Goshgarian at his office were unsuccessful.

QUEEN: Reigns over the job is all right with Musial because she likes to travel during the winters.

She traveled to Australia last winter and enjoyed it so much, she plans on going back this winter. The freedom and wide open spaces beckon her. She also likes to grow plants, make window hangings and drink a glass of wine once in a while.

Driving heavy construction equipment is not that bad, notes Musial. Her day riding the behemoth starts about 7 a.m. and ends at 4 p.m. The short Illinois construction season starts in March and ends sometime in December, depending on the weather.

Because of the noise of the equipment, the ground crew uses hand signals to communicate with Musial. There are signals for "sand", "rock", and "lift your fork".

Musial received her heavy equipment training in the Air Force. Serving 21 years in the reserves and four years active duty during the Persian Gulf war, she was stationed at Ellsworth Air Force Base in Georgia. During that time, she also learned how to hold her own in a male dominated field.

Leaving the service as a technical sergeant, she took her equipment operating skills to the construction field.

"I don't take any crap," Musial said, when asked about working with a mostly male crew. "There's still a little bit of male chauvinism, but it's gotten a lot better."

The men on the crew would agree.

"She does a good job," said one.

Gazing over the job site like a queen surveying her kingdom, Musial leans back in the seat of the giant machine.

"Some of these machines beat you up pretty good," said Musial. "I guess I have another good 10 years in me. Then maybe I'll retire."

Fair books available

The 1998 Lake County Fair premium book has been available since May 15. The book which gives detailed information about entry rules, deadlines, categories and cash prizes, will be mailed to persons who entered last year's Fair competition and to those who have asked to receive the 115 page book.

Persons interested in receiving the premium book should write the Fair Association, giving their name, address, zip code, phone number and specific areas of interest. The Fair Association address is: P.O. Box 216, Grayslake, IL, 60030.

No books will be mailed after July 1. Books may be picked up at the Fair office; the office is open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The 70th Annual Lake County Fair is open for an extra day this year. The Fair begins on Tuesday, July 28 at 6 p.m. and ends on Sunday, Aug. 2. The Fair is located in Grayslake, at Routes 120 and 45. General admission to the Fair is $5 for adults, children (12 and under) FREE, and senior citizens (over 65) $3. Season passes are $15. For more information about the Lake County Fair, call the Fair office at 223-2204 or the Lake County Convention and Visitor's Bureau at 1 (800) 525-3669.

You be the judge

The County Clerk's 1998 campaign to recruit election judges, kicks off in the upcoming episode of the public access television program "A Word with Lake County Clerk Willard Helander." The program features experienced judges, Reta Cohen of Highland Park and Gary Thaler of Libertyville who discuss their experiences.

The panel discussion includes the role of an election judge, the duties judges perform, the training involved, as well as highlights of the many streamlined procedures introduced over the past few years. Reta and Gary share with the audience what motivates them personally to serve and describe some of their more interesting experiences as judges.

"Election judges are the backbone of an election," noted Willard Helander. "We could not conduct any election without the dedicated, civic-minded and well trained judges," Helander added. For more information about becoming an election judge, call our Election Judge Department at 360-3611.

A special carnival ride wrist band of $10 will also be offered, good for unlimited carnival rides during that special family time. The traditional 10K/5K Wauconda Challenge will be held at 8 a.m. Sunday, June 28, followed by the Seventh Annual Car Show at 11 a.m. Pre-registration for the challenge is being taken at the Park District's Community Center, or by calling them at 526-3610.

MN Community Days July 1-5

Mundelein—A lot of new events and many of old mainstays will make up the 20th Anniversary edition of Mundelein Community Days, the village's extended celebration of Independence Day, July 1-5. The summer festival is still taking place on the grounds of Santa Maria Church, at Route 45 and Division Street, and will include such popular events as Mundelein Munch, the Carnival and Freedom Classic races, as well as the pancake breakfast and parade, two events which occur on the final day.

Mundelein Community Days will kick off with the Annual Carnival, sponsored by the Mundelein American Legion 867, held 6-11 p.m. July 1-3, and 1-11 p.m. July 4-5, at Seymour and Courtland. The Mundelein Munch will be held from July 2-5, with the fireworks on July Fourth, along with the community picnic at the Fort Hill Heritage Museum, and the parade bringing an end to Mundelein Community Days on July 5. A Classic & Antique Car Show will be held on the Fourth of July.

The Arts and Crafts Fair will be held on July 3-4 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. at Courtland Road and Seymour Avenue, and Hinckley & Schmitt will provide complimentary water for the first time this year.

Community concerned about drugs

Antioch—Parents, school officials, and government officials from Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, and Antioch met together at Antioch Community High School to learn about community drug use Monday, June 22.

Approximately four dozen people listened to a summary of drug use in the three-community area. They also heard some initial ideas for adults to consider in order to reduce the negative impacts of drug use in the lives of school children.

Information about student alcohol and other drug use was presented from a survey administered to students in District 34 grades 6 to 8, and in District 117 grades 9 to 12 in January and March, 1998.

The community forum was organized by school officials in Districts 34 and 117 to provide an initial approach by the community to work with drug and alcohol problems of young people. This was due in part to another conclusion of the survey which found that "most drug use occurs outside of the school setting."

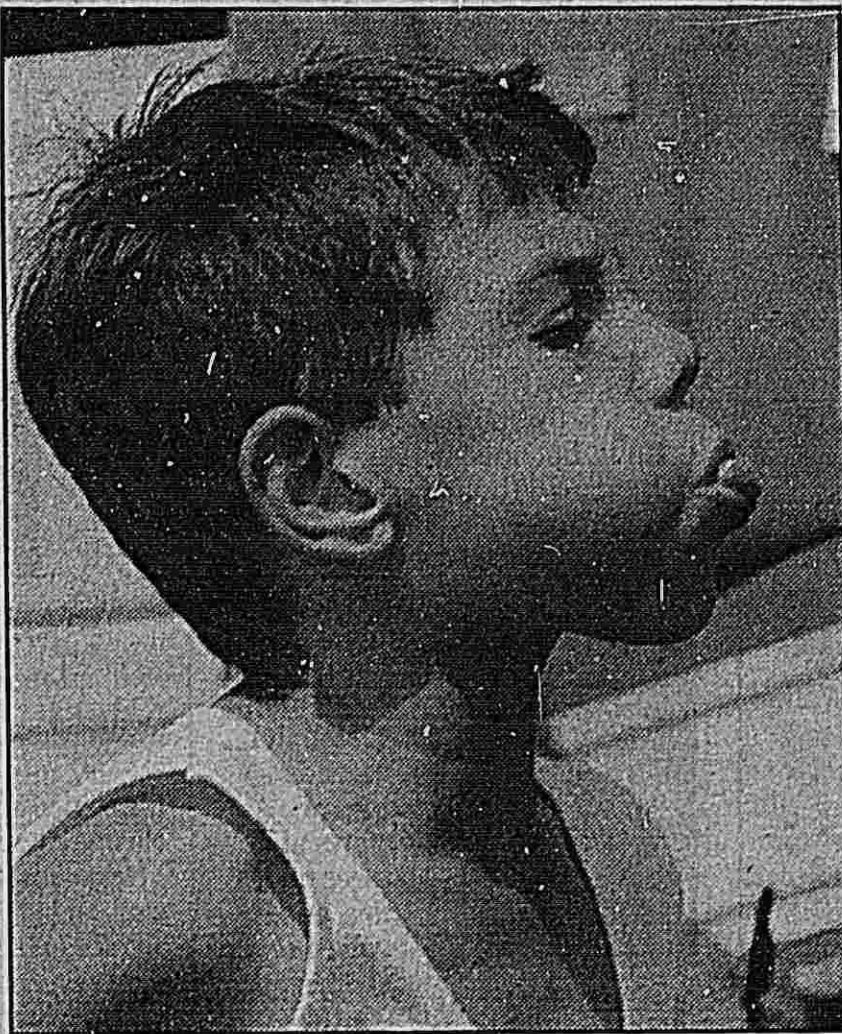

Library pleads for quick decision

Libertyville—Cook Memorial Library District board president Joe Bean appeared before the Libertyville Community High School board of education Monday night, asking them to put a decision on the future of the Brainerd building on the fast track.

Community members have asked the library district to look at using the Brainerd building as a possible library facility but high school officials have said it may be between three and four years before they are ready to make a decision on the building's fate.

Monday night, Bean appealed to the school board to help the library solve its space crunch.

"A number of patrons believe we should use the Brainerd building and/or site (for future library expansion)," said Bean. "I am here to ask for your continuing help with a solution."

Bean specifically asked the board for two things; that the high school allow the library board to perform an engineering analysis of the site and that the school move consideration of the Brainerd building and site to the top of its priority list.

Ron Santo opens field July 6

Lake Villa—Lakes Region Youth Baseball has Ron Santo hosting their ribbon cutting, dedication ceremony July 6, and they have a hot raffle for a cool Scarpelli car on their hands.

The ceremony will be a free chance to meet Ron Santo, a former Cubs professional baseball player, and to see the first completed baseball field.

A ticket to ride and own the car costs $20 and can be bought in multiples at a discount.

The ceremonies will be from 4 to 8 p.m. Monday, July 6. The ribbon and dedication ceremony also will include a sports memorabilia silent auction.

Lake Villa Village Hall is a major sales point for tickets to win the 1998 Chevrolet Cavalier. The bright red automobile was donated by Raymond Chevrolet Oldsmobile in Antioch to help raise funds to build four baseball diamonds on Grass Lake Road.

Tickets also always are available at Raymond Chevrolet Oldsmobile in Antioch and at State Bank of The Lakes. However, the car moves around for display and ticket sales at area events.

Lakes Region Youth Baseball expects to have additional fund raisers during the fall and winter. In Spring, 1999, it is expected that the two-story concession stand will be built.

Pritzker development inspected

Round Lake—A surprise inspection was performed by federal agencies who once again were checking on the status of permit violations in the Valley Lakes subdivision in Round Lake.

The development, located south of Route 134 between Fairfield Road and Wilson Road, has been under a microscope recently due to environmental impact and flooding concerns.

The recent inspection showed considerable progress had been made towards fixing the 12 areas outlined in letters directed to the village of Round Lake by federal agencies concerned.

Township objects to rezoning

Gurnee—A rezoning attempt in Grandwood Park will take a three-fourths vote by the Lake County Board to become realty.

Warren Township Board went further in opposing the Tim Smith rezoning bid for 64 acres than its recommending plan commission had.

"Commercial switching to urban will bring a density of 8 units to the acre. Residential to suburban will bring 4.4 units per acre," Sue Simpson, supervisor, said.

The 65 acres are located North of Route 132 and east of Route 45 in Grandwood Park, an unincorporated area. Five zoning change requests are on file with Lake County. If granted, three parcels would become suburban zoning and two urban zoning.

"There is such a myriad of uses and there is no plan in hand. That is why we object to it," Simpson said.

Lindenfest rocks with Buckinghams

Lindenhurst—Entertainment at Lindenfest this year will feature the Buckinghams and their original oldies from the 1960s on Saturday, Aug. 15. The Lindenfest parade also steps out at 10 a.m. that day.

Saturday's parade begins at Beck and Sand Lake Roads. The festival grounds open at 12 p.m. with a Mayor's Auction and Youth Bingo followed by a karaoke contest for all ages.

Saturday evening music begins with Jade 50, back by popular demand. They are the opening act for the Buckinghams.

The Buckinghams charted with "Kind of a Drag" on December 31, 1966 at 90 on Billboard's Hot 100. By February 18, 1967, "Kind of a Drag" was number one on the charts.

The career of The Buckinghams resulted in five more chart hits. They were "Mercy, Mercy, Mercy," "Susan," "Hey Baby (They're Playing Our Song)," "Back in Love Again," and "Don't You Care."

Liberty Hall proposal shot down

Libertyville—The State Board of Education upheld the decision of Libertyville Elementary District 70 to deny the proposed Liberty Hall Charter School.

With the Liberty Hall proposal halted for now, one would think charter school founders would be distraught.

However, a reversal on the denial of the Thomas Jefferson Charter School, in Elk Grove Village District 59, has Liberty Hall charter proposers smiling.

"I try to be a big picture kind of person," said Barbara Shafer, one of the founders of Liberty Hall. "I have no mixed feelings. It's a step forward. It's nothing but a positive as a big picture kind of thing."

The decision on the Thomas Jefferson charter is a victory for not only the founders of that school, but Shafer believes it was a victory for everyone involved in the Illinois education system. It was the third time the Thomas Jefferson proposal had appeared before the state board.

BOCA brings headaches to businesses

Fox Lake—An ordinance passed in 1987 and being enforced today is making Mayor Jim Pappas and building inspector Bill Hart answer all kinds of questions.

The questions most often being asked is how will the enforcement of the BOCA code effect the businesses in Fox Lake.

"People are reacting to rumors in this circumstance and are making a bigger deal of this than is needed," Pappas stated about the code. "Out of the 30 phone calls we have received, it only effected three of the businesses we spoke to."

According to Hart, the code only effects people who have a building larger than 5,000 square feet. Current buildings that exceed that number must have a fire alarm installed into their building that is wired into the 911 dispatch in the Fox Lake Police Department.

Buildings that are over 10,000 square feet need to contact Hart and be inspected to determine whether the building is in need of a sprinkler system.

Not all businesses that are over 10,000 square feet would require a sprinkler system, however. According to Hart, there are only certain buildings that would require a sprinklers to be installed into buildings to protect from fires.

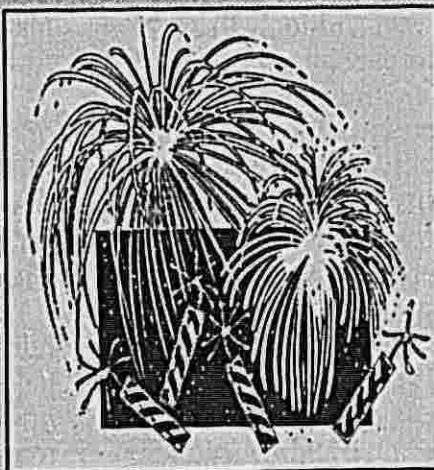

"Larger buildings that have exposure to fire and dangerous materials are in need of a sprinkler system," Hart explained. "Were not asking the businesses to do anything that we are not willing to do ourselves."

Lindenhurst stands firm on development standards

Hearing the voices of their residents, the Village Board of Lindenhurst on Monday, took a stand not often echoed by boards in Lake County—it refused to consider hearings on a proposed development, because residents have complained about unfinished projects in existing subdivisions.

Bravo. Bravo. Bravo.

What Lake County residents need are more elected officials who are willing to hold developers to the promises made when they sought approval to build.

Too many village hide behind excuses of lack of staffing and the need for additional tax revenue, in not putting forth the effort to make sure developers finish the finishing touches of a project.

More often than not, home owners associations bear the burden of taking their developer "landlords" to task for construction debris, unfinished landscaping or other such last minute details left unfinished.

It was the second meeting in recent weeks where residents sought village support to find a solution to the unfinished projects.

"There are some uncompleted items which Meridian development needs to attend to, so staff recommends using this as a big stick," stated Lindenhurst Village Manager Jim Stevens.

The village has given Meridian Development, headed by Scott Salgon, an additional three weeks to see how they are progressing on the landscaping and other homeowner improvements in their Emerald Shores development.

Discussions on the group's next proposed housing development, Cross Creek, have been postponed until at least July 13, when the board reconvenes.

Meridian Development has been working on a village mandated "punch list" for its upscale Emerald Shores Development since last October.

Residents of the developer's Auburn Meadows subdivision have voiced similar complaints.

Trustee James Betustak, in dismissing Salgon from the meeting told residents, "I hope you see that this board has appreciated your public comment."

Government by the people, for the people.
It still works.

SWACLO goes back to the drawing board

The Solid Waste Agency of Lake County appears to once again be in search of a home for the much needed Household Hazardous Waste Facility, after bowing to public pressure in Round Lake and withdrawing plans to build a facility behind Round Lake High School.

The site was chosen by SWALCO more than one year ago. SWALCO will work with Round Lake officials to find a more suitable site in the village for the facility.

This latest blow comes after talks in both Wauconda and Lake Zurich to house the facility broke down in the past couple of years.

At the core of the search for a site appears to be a general misunderstanding of the purpose of the facility. SWALCO leaders have openly discussed finding a new name for the project, suggesting the term "household hazardous waste" conjures up an image more dangerous than necessary.

The Household Hazardous Waste Facility would serve as a collection point for used paints, household cleaners and other such items. These items would then be collected into storage containers, detoxified and shipped out for disposal, similar to the way motor oil and gasoline are disposed of at local gas stations.

Despite a public campaign, which repeatedly tried to inform residents that items in the storage facility would differ little from those in their garage, the facility has been continually shot down.

It is necessary for both SWALCO and the public to find a solution and a permanent home for the facility, for several reasons. SWALCO estimates it will lose at least $30,000 of tax payer money on the resell of the Round Lake parcel and taxpayers are desperate for a site to take these products for disposal.

Clearer communication may be the key.

How pet vanished remains unsolved mystery

VIEWPOINT

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Cally's home! Sweeter words could not have been spoken Father's Day than when the family pet appeared at our front door at one o'clock in the morning, excited and panting, but none the worse for a mysterious 60 hour absence.

Cally's home. The six-year-old German shepherd's return in the middle of the

CALLY:

Home after 60-hour absence night brought to a halt a frantic search that extended into two states and three counties, and involved several dozen police departments, animal control agencies and countless places of business.

Our desperate quest provided scores of examples of human kindness and concern, unexpected offers of help, the cooperation that is available to families in need from public service agencies, some unforgettable pet stories and insight into the corporate mentality.

Frantic from the searing screech of a carbide saw and disturbed by carpenters at work on a basement remodeling job, Cally bolted from the house when a worker thoughtlessly opened the door to a bedroom where she had been placed for safe keeping.

Once out of the yard, the dog that had been an integral part of our family since a four-month-old puppy vanished without a trace. Family members formed search parties, combing the immediate neighborhood and then fanning out to areas where a frightened animal might seek refuge. No one saw a fleeing dog.

Next came a meticulous telephone campaign to notify every police agency. Pet search organizations we didn't even know existed offered advice to expand the search in ever widening circles. Media outlets were contacted and ads were placed. "Don't miss a bet. Information is your best ally in conducting a pet search," the experts related. Posters were placed and flyers were distributed as far as 10 miles away.

On Saturday before Father's Day, I put in six hours distributing flyers to businesses and talking to people. With two exceptions, every business contact was cooperative and sympathetic. Menard's and K Mart proved to be the only wet blankets. Think about all the commercials you've heard and the ads you've read about how Menard's and K Mart are "customer friendly," working hard to be good neighbors and stressing good corporate citizenship. Don't believe them because Menard's and K-mart are lying. It's not true. Those two companies ought to save their public relations budget and donate to charity, because they simply don't practice what they preach.

One of the wonderful pet search stories was about a dog that appeared miraculously one morning on the back steps of a Round Lake area home after a nine-month absence. The Healy family of Antioch told about retrieving a pet from Georgia that had been stolen. Dog lovers offered encouragement. "Don't give up. Keep looking."

Cally's home. What a relief. Despair turned to joy in the fraction of a second with the appearance of a creature unable to offer a shred of evidence of what actually happened. Only her eyes and body language bespoke of the happiness of a dog to be back in the house where she is loved and cared for.

Since Cally was not covered with mud or burrs we know she was not roaming aimlessly. There was no evidence of mistreatment. A rabies tag and name tag were still attached to her chain collar. Animal rescuers explained that while mixed-breed dogs regularly are reported found, more often than not people who come in contact with an untended pedigreed dog will keep the animal. That's a fact of life, they said.

We can only guess that Cally was taken in and held against her will. Her captors had a change of heart and let her go. Otherwise, the true story of how a dog vanished is known only by an animal unable to describe the harrowing experience and the occupants of a household that thought differently about keeping a dog that belonged to someone else.

A closing word. The Schroeder family was overwhelmed by the expressions of cooperation in the search for our pet. The world is full of understanding people. Thank you. Thank you. A happy ending to a heart rending experience.

Cally's home.

Battle lines drawn: Chamber vs lawyers

Recently, there was an Associated Press wire story that reported the U.S. Chamber of commerce will be planning an all-out expensive attack on trial lawyers this year. The story said that the Chamber is enlisting the support of Republican congressional leaders, but you can bet that the money to fund the campaign will come from manufacturers, physicians, and business groups. The tobacco industry, ripped by recent court awards, will bankroll some of the campaign.

One day after the wire story, the Illinois Supreme Court struck down a Republican-engineered 1995 law that would have capped personal injury lawsuit awards at $500,000. Illinois manufacturers complained that the high court turned its back on a chance to reform the civil justice system. But, a parent of a train-bus accident victim said, "the law protected negligent companies and wrongdoers."

The "tort reform" issue is a raging one. It's "big bucks" and both sides are now going to spend tons of it on attacks and counterattacks. The U.S. Chamber called their plan a public relations offensive. They know that many Americans don't like lawyers, until they need one. They know that many Americans get upset when they read about someone getting a zillion dollars for a coffee burn. They know that many Americans blame lawyers for the flurry of frivolous lawsuits and our clogged court system.

SEEING IT THROUGH

All of the above may be true, but before we rush to judgment, as the famed radio personality says, we ought to hear the "rest of the story." As far as I'm concerned, many of our products have been made safer as a result of lawsuits. Consumers need protection against wrongdoers.

Just before Christmas, my wife said, "Bobby would be 50 years old today." She was talking about her younger brother who was killed when he was 18 years. He was driving a Corvair, a car with the engine in the back. The car wasn't manufactured for long; it was a dangerous vehicle. Even at normal speeds, if you had to veer suddenly to avoid an accident, the car shimmied uncontrollably. Her family didn't sue but across the country there were many lawsuits, many settlements, and vigilance of consumer advocate Ralph Nader which caused the Corvair to be discontinued. Lawsuits have played a major role in removing unsafe products from the market.

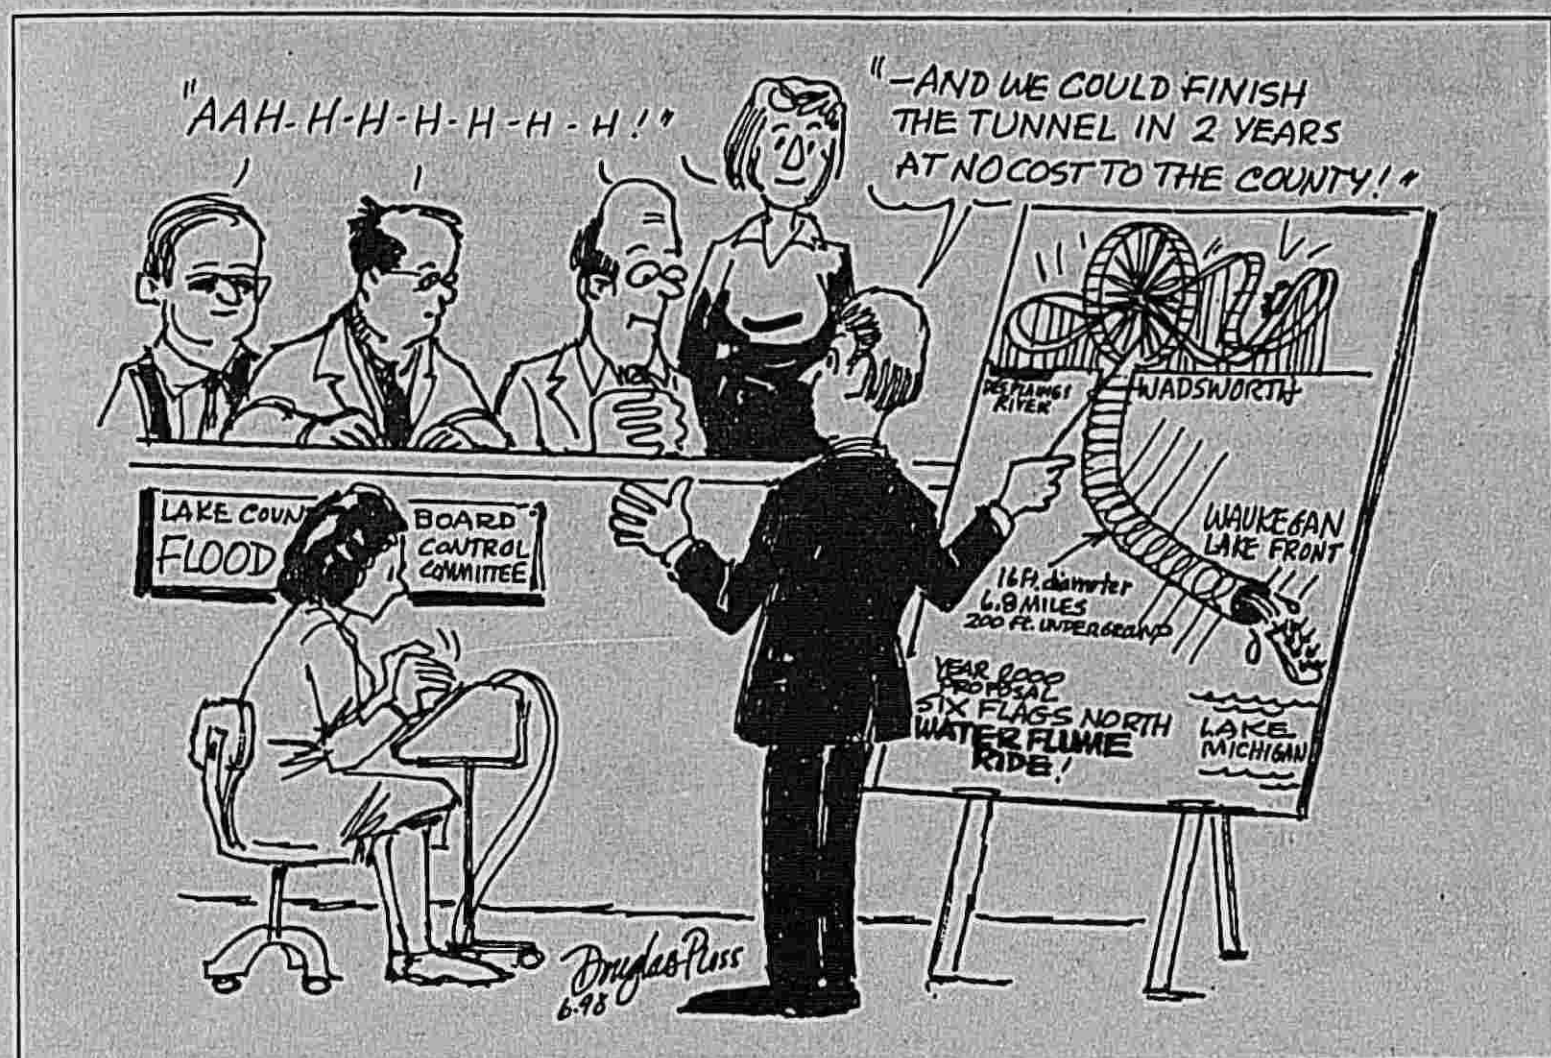

Some years ago, I had a cataract implant operation. It didn't work out. After the operation, I was sent to a specialist, who also lobbied for ophthalmologists in Springfield. I can still hear his comment ringing in my ears. He said, "You know sometimes these things work out by themselves in seven or so years." I had the urge to jump out of the chair and poke him in one of his good eyes. I thought, "how stupid can he be, doesn't he know that, as a legislator I know that the statute of limitations was seven years (since reduced to three)." Well, it's over 15 years now, it didn't work itself out, and I'm sightless in that eye. There was no lawsuit, but his comment was evidence to me that one professional practitioner will cover for another one. Malpractice lawsuits are a necessary protection to ensure quality health care.

You may remember when the motorized lawn mowers came on the scene. People were losing their toes, left and right, because of the lack of safety features. It took a flurry of lawsuits, and high damage awards, for manufacturers to finally design safety features to protect lawn mower users from such injuries.

There are many more examples of how lawsuits corrected horrible mistakes. How about the drug thalidomide which caused so many birth defects before it was finally withdrawn from the market.

So, consumers, when the "public relations war" begins next year, don't believe all that you hear. It's "pocket-book warfare" and they're trying to reach into yours.

A matter of perspective

In response to last week's party lines topic on the water tower at the Pritzker Valley Lakes development in Round Lake, village building commissioner Ray Wolfel called to the set the record straight.

In countering the "lies" that the water tower is leaning to one side by as much as eight feet, Wolfel said the tower is not sinking and is off "maybe and inch." He added that a tower of that height leaning one foot off center would be in tolerance and that it would fall over if it were really off by as much as was reported.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hometown spirit prevails despite change

Although I have never felt the need to write a letter to the editor, I have found an appropriate occasion. I often hear comments about the changes in Grayslake. Although we have had many changes, one quality has not changed in the 45 years that I have lived here.

A fire destroyed a portion of our home on June 12. Fortunately, no one was injured and our losses were limited to replaceable items. The outpouring of concern, assistance, offers of help and genuine friendship were overwhelming and greatly appreciated. When I think of the endearing qualities of a community I can think of no better example than the numerous acts of kindness which were extended to our family. I look no further than this community spirit to understand why this has been and will remain our hometown.

Revive tax rebate discussion

Again, it is time to discuss the subject of tax rebates to Gurnee citizens.

Consideration to pay tax rebates ended over a year ago after a Chicago lawyer gave our "Gurnee Village Leaders" advice that this "might" cause legal complications. However, we were told when we achieved "home rule" status, this might no longer be a problem. Now, this hurdle has been cleared.

So—we should find another lawyer. Let's get one who can give us all the reasons why it is a good idea. We can emphasize how many governmental entities already do this for its citizens—towns, cities, even states. It is do-able. So let's get the people together who will do it—not tell us to forget it.

Next, our elected officials should recognize the will of the people. The grandiose complex championed by the Gurnee Park District has been rejected three times in recent years.

In 1990-91 the proposal nearly got the entire Park District dissolved when it was part of a grand scheme outlined in a backdoor referendum, totaling $16 million. The board tried to avoid a vote in order to beat the tax cap law which was soon to be enacted. The voters were so upset they created the "Citizens for Tax Moderation" who petitioned to have it voted upon. The board wouldn't put it to a vote then (they knew it would lose), and we all saved a lot of money. Taxes for this bureaucracy tumbled until last year when they started going up again.

The Guerneville village trustees need to realize the majority of the people don't want this expensive complex. They want parks to be open spaces—not buildings and baby-sitters. They also don't want park decisions coming from the village. Many even resent them considering taking action on the matter. If it could be their decision, why then would we need a park board?

Let's spend the energy achieving what we all want, tax rebates from Gurnee and overall tax relief from every taxing body. Gurnee is fortunate to be in a position to accomplish this with their multiple sources of income. Our officials should not squander this unique opportunity on an ever-increasing myriad of ideas to build state-of-the-art facilities we don't need, and to continue the explosion of governmental staffs and fancy equipment, just because we can get our hands on a lot of money. All need to start keeping the promises made in the past—so they payoff in the future.

Jerry Martin

Who pays for traffic solutions?

A couple of basic questions have yet to be answered by the opponents of the extension of Highway 53.

- How much are the alternatives to the extension of Highway 53 going to cost us and how are they to be paid for?

- How much environmental damage and loss to residential and commercial property will be caused by their alternatives?

If opponents of Highway 53 extension do not answer these basic questions satisfactorily, they are saying, in my opinion, live with the traffic mess.

The advantage of the toll road system is that it is self financing—the users of the system pay for it. Alternatives must be paid for by tax dollars, presumably by an increase in the gas tax. Perhaps as much as 5¢ a gallon. Will the populous support it and do the opponents propose it?

As I see the effects of widening alternative arterial highways, they will cause as much damage and loss as the toll road and people will not support a substantial increase in the gas tax to pay for them.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Expanding your business: A ten-point checkup

Adding new products, services, departments or locations can help you grow your business. However, expanding your business can eat up cash, decrease profits and place undue stress on you and your associates.

There is no simple answer to the question, "Is it time to expand?" However, I can give you some key elements to consider as you evaluate expansion as a business-building philosophy.

Ten Key Considerations

- Do your homework. You'll need good information to ensure a firm foundation for your expansion plans. Who will buy the new products or services offered? Will your customers be businesses or individuals? How much will it cost to expand?

- Ask the tough questions. If you're staying busy every minute now, how will you find time to expand? Where will you get the money to expand? Can you handle the additional stress? Will the reward be worth the effort?

- Assess the environment. Many business owners expand without having a clue as to how tough the new playing field will be. Take a long, hard look at the business climate you'll be entering. Do you know the competitors well enough to evaluate their strengths and weaknesses? Are consumer needs and wants strong in the new area you're considering? What advantages and benefits can you offer that will be unique in your new environment?

- Consider the trends. Most successful expansions are piggy-backing on a trend. If you're adding a new product line will it capitalize on a trend? It is possible to buck a trend and swim upstream, but you will have little room for error if you choose to do so.

- Set clear, achievable goals. Two years ago I visited with a small-business owner who is growing his business at a rate of nearly 30 percent per year. He said, "Once you decide to grow, you still need to create targets to shoot at."

Your targets are your goals for expansion. Don't hesitate to think big. Sometimes it takes big, bold thinkers to get the job done. However, all goals must be specific, achievable and measurable.

- Put your expansion plan in writing. Yes, I'm still a believer in writing it down. Last week one of my clients avoided a very costly mistake because he discovered a significant error as he put his plan on paper. You shouldn't write a book, but at least do a Reader's Digest version of your plan.

- Get help when you need it. Good advice from seasoned professionals can be critical to your success. No one can know the answers to all questions. Attorneys, accountants, business consultants, mentors and successful peers can help you stay on course. Be careful who you listen to. Not all well-intentioned advice is good advice.

'Once Upon a Child' opens in McHenry

Once Upon A Child just opened a major new children's resale store at 1718 N. Richmond Road (Route 31) at McCullom Lake Road in McHenry. This exciting national chain buys and sells high-quality, brand-name, excellent-condition children's merchandise. Their gently-used items include children's clothing (newborn to size 6x), furniture, equipment, accessories, toys, books and games.

The new location complements 15 successful Once Upon A Time stores in Round Lake Beach, Schaumburg, West Dundee, Skokie, Des Plaines, and other sites. They provide a new concept in children's resale that really appeals to parents.

Once Upon A Child appeals to value-conscious adults who must continuously buy children's toys, clothing, equipment, furniture and merchandise. They know that well-made and well-cared-for items can easily last through several children. Kids quickly outgrow clothing or won't wear certain items or lost interest in many games and toys.

Once Upon A Child buys quality children's merchandise from parents for cash—not consignment. Parents can also find quality children's merchandise at only 1/3 to 1/2 the original cost. There's a wide array of clothing priced at $1 to $6 each; many toys at $3 each; other items are higher but still represent an excellent value. Numerous customers trade-in high-quality merchandise, then apply that money to purchase other quality goods for their growing children. Once Upon A Child invites parents to trade-up in sizes and help keep family finances in line.

The chain offers great shopping appeal to parents and grandparents. Stores are bright, clean, attractive,

Kathy Liebfritz (left) and Kim Barrett manage the new Once Upon A Child store in McHenry. fresh-smelling and look exactly like a children's boutique. In fact, most customers exclaim, "I can't believe it's resale."

Once Upon A Child insists on quality merchandise. Clothing must be clean, in current style, without tears or stains, without worn knees or elbows, with all buttons and clasps attached, and often a name brand. Everything must be freshly laundered and individually folded when brought in. Toys and games must be clean, complete and working. Only top-quality goods are accepted for resale.

Customer service is widely practiced. For example, many stores keep customer wish-lists and call customers when desired merchandise arrives. They treat buyers with respect, explaining purchase policies and pricing factors. Also, goods are returnable (ask for details).

In addition to moms, Once Upon A Child serves grandmothers, who frequently buy toys for their grandchildren and must furnish a room for their young overnight guests. Grandmothers know the indestructibility of many brand name toys and the lasting quality of many kids' clothes. Being value conscious, they shudder at expensive new-retail prices and quickly become devoted shoppers of this quality children's resale chain.

The new Once Upon A Child in McHenry is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. Call (815) 759-9994 for more information.

Developing a strategic plan for your business

A well-defined strategy can help put your company on the road to success. The Illinois CPA Society points out that developing such strategies enables business owners to cope with and even capitalize on the constantly changing environment in which they operate. Here are some of the key components for any business strategic plan.

Clearly Stated Goals

Look at what your company has accomplished in the past and consider where you want it to go in the future. What are your sales expectations? What about the introduction of new products? Are any currently under development and when do you plan to introduce them? What are your revenue expectations for the next five years? Addressing these questions and committing your goals to paper is the first step in being able to achieve them.

Economic And Other Environmental Issues

Identify how the social and economic environment in which your business operates will be changing and the impact both positive and negative this will have on your ability to achieve your goals. Consider such factors as changing demographics, inflation, spending habits of potential customers, and even technological advances that can impact how you manufacture, market and sell your products or services.

Also, look at the competition. Will you be facing more or less competition down the road? How are major competitors positioning themselves? What do you need to do to make your product or service unique and to differentiate it from the competition? These are among the questions that should be addressed in developing a strategy.

Focus on what you do best

Give your company a self-assessment. Focus on the company's current strengths and look at how those strengths will help the company prosper today and in the future. While some strategies may specify that new products be developed, others may focus on expanding marketing of current products.

Human Resources Issues

A strategic plan also can help you identify and address human resources issues—and no matter how small or large your business, this is critical to achieving your goals. Look at your work force now and consider whether it will need to change in the future. In what areas will you need more help? Can you afford to hire more people or workers who have a specific expertise? Will you need full or part-time employees? Developing your strategic business plan that identifies future challenges can help you to determine the training needs of staff. What skills or knowledge must they have to help your company remain competitive now and in the future?

Sources of Capital

Having a strategic plan and vision for your company will also result in determining those areas where you will need major inflows of capital. By determining this in advance, you'll have the time necessary to explore your options among potential investors, bankers and other lenders, and venture capitalists.

Measurements of Success

Your strategic plan should be a document that is appropriate to disseminate to management, staff, shareholders, and others who play key roles in its implementation. Done correctly, it can function as a tool for boosting morale and teamwork.

A strategic plan includes action items that are associated with each goal. Some of these action items can be set forth at the outset, while others may be determined as the strategy is implemented.

CPAs say be sure you have a benchmark against which you can measure the success of your plan. It can be a research study showing customer attitudes, documenting current purchasing trends, or simply listing sales figures for a year. This benchmark can then be used as a basis for comparison once your strategic plan is implemented.

TCI lowers service charge prices

According to TCI of Northeast Illinois, customers will see lower service charge prices this August when the company significantly cuts service charge costs in accordance with TCI policy.

TCI of Northeast Illinois general manager Paul Ashley said, "The adjustments in our service charges are indicative of the tremendous benefits affecting our customers since TCI became the area's cable television service provider last year."

The improved service prices reflect serious steps taken by the company to reduce pressure on the prices paid by customers. The new lower rates are: Unwired home installation—was $91.08, now $46.95; Wired home installation—was $45.54, now $24.95; Additional outlet connection (at time of initial install)—was $22.77, now $13.95; Move outlet—was $45.54, now $21.95; Upgrade/downgrade of optional services (addressable service)—was $2, now $1.99; Upgrade of optional services (requiring separate trip)—was $45.54, now $13.95; Downgrade of optional services (requiring separate trip)—was $22.77, now $8.95; Hourly service charge—was $45.54, now $32; and Additional outlet—was 35 cents, now free.

An additional improvement TCI has made is the availability of TCI Digital Cable, which offers up to 43 additional video channels and 10 audio channels of entertainment for a very low cost. The company is also moving forward with its plans to offer the @Home service sometime next year, which will provide customers with high speed Internet access.

BUSINESS DIGEST

Record first quarter and record 1997

Century 21 Kreuser and Seiler in Libertyville posted 200 unit sale valued in excess of $41 million during the first quarter of 1998, and increase of 34% over 1997. Gross revenue for the firm in 1997 was up 13% over 1996. The company now ranks in the top one half of 1% of over 5000 Century 21 offices in the United States, and is the top office in Lake County. Kreuser attributed the record performance to an experienced sales staff and to a substantial increase in corporate relocation business. "About 24% of our business was the result of a referred buyer or seller client from outside our local market area," said Kreuser.

Kreuser and Seiler has 45 full-time agents helping people by and sell new and existing homes throughout Lake County.

"By the end of 1998, all plazas throughout the Tollway will be equipped with upgraded I-PASS service, allowing motorists to move through toll plazas faster and more conveniently," said Tollway Executive Director Ralph C. Wehner. "We are also adding more I-PASS ONLY lanes at existing I-PASS plazas and building full-speed I-PASS Express lanes that will further ease the flow of traffic."

To obtain an I-PASS application, motorists should call 1-800-UC-IPASS.

Lake anti-violence group awarded $30,000 grant

A $30,000 grant has been awarded to Lake County Unites for Violence Intervention and Prevention (VIP) by the Illinois Violence Prevention Authority.

Barbara Haley, chair, said at VIP's annual meeting at Lambs Farm, Libertyville, that funding is coming from sales of the state's violence prevention license plates. She said VIP is one of 24 programs approved from 160 proposals.

Haley said the grant will fund VIP's community safety project, which includes a fall forum Oct. 1, publication of newsletters and violence prevention brochures, community assessments and collaboration with Lake County Fighting Back and KidPower's everyday skill program. The funding will also enable continuation of a part-time coordinator for VIP.

She said VIP is committed to preventing violence through initiatives directed at parent and family education. The group sponsored a "Families Matter" forum last November at the College of Lake County, printed and distributed thousands of copies of a brochure aimed at helping parents determine if there are violence-related problems at home and participated in a variety of community wellness fairs.

The recent shooting deaths by young people in small communities throughout the country underscore the need for groups like VIP, she said.

VIP continues to participate in the YouthPeace initiative of the Illinois Council for the Prevention of Violence. YouthPeace, which provides leadership training and violence prevention strategies, has a VIP-sponsored chapter at Central Middle School in Zion.

Formed four years ago, VIP is a countrywide collaboration of human service agencies, organizations and individuals. Founding members include the Child Care Coalition of Lake County, the Lake County Health Department, the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA) and Prevention Services/In Touch.

For more information about VIP, call Christine Lopez, program coordinator, at 604-1504.

TAYLOR: Check-up on expanding your business

• Carefully consider financial consequences. Expansion usually puts a strain on cash flow. Cash that usually sustains ongoing operations is now being siphoned off for expansion needs. Money gets tight and someone doesn't get paid.

The key to managing cash flow during expansion is to anticipate cash needs in your plan. A carefully thought out plan will allow you to borrow or accumulate extra cash.

• Carefully consider the human consequences. If others are involved, they will be asking the question, "What's in it for me?" If you are effective and persuasive in convincing others that expansion is in their best interest, you are more likely to receive their full support.

• Be committed. Once you've gone through the process and made the decision to grow, don't waver. You've created the plan, now execute with vigor. Success in many endeavors is often a matter of hanging on a little longer when others are letting go.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Question: I have been working as a secretary to a V-P of a small company for the past eleven years. My salary is in the high 30's with no benefits except for paid holidays. My computer skills are more limited to WordPerfect which I taught when it first came out and my boss purchased our computer for the office. My typing speed is somewhere in the 50 wpm range, and I have been the right hand to this sales professional for so long and now he is moving out of state. I cannot uproot my family and therefore I am seeking other employment. The interviews that I have been on have resulted in two offers for secretarial employment with very reputable corporations, (names withheld). The problem is my salary. I am finding that both offered me a salary of $26-$28,500 but I turned them both down due to the low wages. Both corporations were surprised, they said, at my turning down the positions, but I need to hold out for more money which I am accustomed to. I don't feel I should settle for less. What is the going rate for a secretary with eleven years' experience with only WordPerfect? Am I being unreasonable? What do you suggest? Thank you J.K. -Libertyville

Dear J.K.
No one likes to take a cut in pay if at all possible. There does come a time, however, with cases of longevity, where one can literally be priced out of the market. This can easily be understood. While employees usually receive increases in salary once per year, the raises after eleven years can add up, thus putting you in a salary category that exceeds the current market. Currently, (depending on the level of secretary and excluding entry level), secretarial positions in our area range from $20-$30,000. My suggestion is to realize that there are companies out there that can utilize your talents and experience and not only offer you a respectable salary, but benefits galore, which of course you are not used to having. At this time I would suggest that you weigh all offers, with the benefits package looked upon as wages as well. The two corporations you mentioned (although I held out their names), are well respected when it comes to salary and benefits. While you are used to receiving only holiday pay the past eleven years, you could now benefit from receiving benefits such as medical, dental, vision, tuition, 401K, profit sharing and so many other benefits out there that employers are taking advantage of to boost employee spirit and productivity. While you mentioned that you have turned down these two opportunities, perhaps the door has not slammed shut. It probably would not hurt to contact the individuals who made the offers and take a chance that the positions are still available. With a bit of explanation perhaps one can be yours. Let me know how it turns out. -Good Luck

Grayslake, IL 60030-0268

The Neptune (406-58) offers symmetry and simplicity on the exterior, with a spacious interior floor plan at 1,157 square feet. The inset covered entry is lit by a door-side window, and opens toward a coat closet straight ahead. Living and sleeping quarters are on the left while the kitchen and dining rooms are on the right. A convenient storage area in the rear of the single car garage could be used for storage of bicycles, tools, or yard equipment. Access to the kitchen with bags of groceries is a very convenient one step up from the garage. There is also a door from the garage onto a covered deck as well as access from the dining room. This makes it ideal for planning outdoor parties or for easy accessibility for doing yard work.

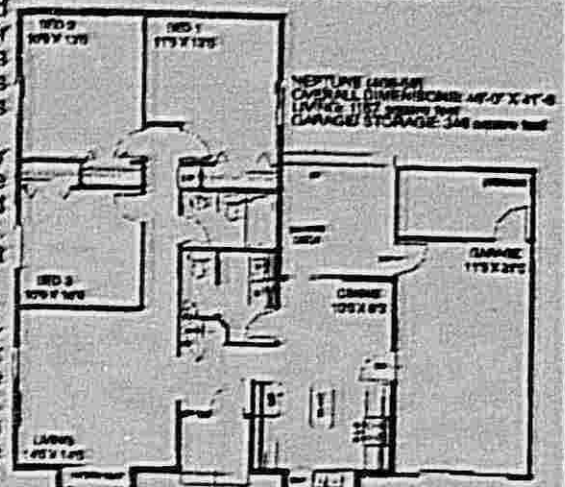

The unique U-shaped kitchen has a bay window for the sink and dishwasher. The cabinets stop at the wall, eliminating hard-to-reach corner cabinets. There is an abundance of counter space beside the refrigerator and on both sides of the range. A traditional center island completes this bright, spacious, and inviting kitchen.

Down the hall to the rear of the home, a full bath on the right is shared by three large bedrooms. A hall linen closet is ideally located between the bath and a bedroom.

For a comfortable spot to sit quietly and read, or do needlework in a well lit area, or even a spot to meditate, a window seat is well placed in the living room. From this vantage point, one could also see who is stopping by to visit.

The Neptune is an exceptional plan for a young family just starting out, or for the retired couple that needs less home and yet wants one that is still fun and spacious. The dimensions of this home also make it ideal for narrow lots.

For a study kit of the NEPTUNE (406-58LP60) send $14.95, to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (Specify plan name & number for kit). For a Dream Home plan book featuring our most popular home plans, send $7.95, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Tip Of The Day

ON THE GREEN - Two Tips TO IMPROVE YOUR PUTTING.

WHEN PUTTING, THE BALL NEEDS TO BE DIRECTLY UNDER YOUR EYES. TO CHECK THIS, ASSUME YOUR STANCE,
& HOLDING YOUR PUTTER LOOSELY
BY THE GRIP, LET IT HANG FROM BETWEEN YOUR EYES. THE PUTTER
SHOULD HOVER LIKE A PLUMB BOB DIRECTLY OVER THE BALL.

BAD PUTTERS PUTT WITH THEIR HANDS. GOOD PUTTERS PUTT WITH THEIR SHOULDERS. BE SURE THAT YOU MAKE YOUR PUTTING STROKE
WITH YOUR SHOULDERS - WITH NO HAND OR WRIST MOVEMENT.
THE BACK OF YOUR LEFT WRIST
SHOULD NOT CHANGE POSITIONS
THROUGHOUT THE STROKE.

PROFESSIONAL & THE GENERAL MANAGER OF THE VERNON HILLS
